TWO WOMEN HURT IN CRASH OF AUTOS

Two women were injured today in a head-on collision between autos on Border road, Stonehame. Mrs. William P. Cook, mother of William P. Cook of Perkins avenue, Melrose, who was driving one auto, suffered a nervous shock, and Mrs. Olive Alger of Perkins avenue, fellow-passenger, received a broken rib. John J. Bartholomew of South street, Medford, was driving the other car. Both drivers blame ruts in the icy street for the smash.

FORD ORDERS SALE OF CAMBRIDGE PLANT

The outgrown Ford plant at Cottage Farm Bridge, Cambridge, which is to be replaced by a newer and more commodious plant in Somerville, is to be sold. The sale was authorized by the Ford Motor Company today, and with it five other outgrown plants are to be sold. These are located in Minneapolis, Dallas, Louisville, Memphis and Philadelphia. The buildings will not be auctioned, but will be advertised for private sale.

Groans, Liquidating Mellon Goes Shopping Strange Lady Cynthia Mushing for Gold

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1926, by Brisbane Co.

SIGHS, GROANS and liquidating in Wall Street. You have seen a good farm housewife shake out the tablecloth and its crumbs to the chickens in the back yard.

Similarly, Wall Street housewives of high finance are shaking out the little crumb speculators. Out they go by the thousands. Later those Wall Street housewives will have gathered in the stocks and the game will start up again.

DON'T BE frightened out of your stocks, if you bought the right kind and are able to hold them and own them.

A nation voluntarily buying back nearly a billion of its own debt as a minor incident hasn't finished with its boom.

Secretary Mellon will buy and retire one hundred million worth of the third Liberty Loan bearing 4¼ per cent., as part of his Spring financing.

Also six hundred and sixteen millions of Treasury notes will be paid, cutting down the nation debt seven hundred and sixteen million dollars.

Our European friends, reading that, will be more than ever bitter about "Uncle Sam swollen with gold," and be more than ever determined, through the World Court, to relieve him of that gold.

LADY CYNTHIA MOSELEY, genuine British title, went to Chicago where her grandfather, Levi Leiter, parned dry-goods money that enriched her father, Lord Curzon.

This unusual lady declined invitations to dine, from perfectly good Chicago millionaires, possessing correct "Chicago social positions," and went to Hull House, where poor people are made welcome.

Then she went on to Milwaukee to call on Victor Berger, Socialist leador and only Socialist member of Congress. Lady Cynthia is a "Socialist Laborite."

SURELY WASHINGTON will not take this "lying down." Some 100 per cent. red blooded American official will arrange to have Lady Cynthia Moseley sent to Ellis Island and deported.

There must be something "dangerous to our institutions" about a woman who prefers Victor Berger, the Socialist, to a dinner with gold plates in the house that Potter Palmer built, on Chicago's "gold coast."

THE WORLD has been much explored since and before the days of Marco Polo, and the exploring goes on. Ten expeditions are about to start for the Polar regions, some to find the Pole again, others to seek new lands and perhaps oil, gold, etc.; others go in the interest of science.

In Canada frozen roads are packed with gold seekers defying the temperature fifty degrees below zero in a new gold rush, gold seekers mushing in dog sleds racing to the new strike where "gold is showing over a stretch of country five miles in length, with good ground still unstaked." It won't remain unstaked long. Say "gold" and people move as when you cry "fire."

Deported Woman Assails Hub Station

BIMBA GUILTY OF SEDITION ACQUITTED OF BLASPHEMY

BOSTON'S IMMIGRATION ALIVE WITH BUGS, SAYS SELINA CHIPPENDALE

A bitter arraignment of Boston's immigration officials and the Hub immigration station came from Liverpool, Eng., today and from the lips of Selina Chippendale, English proletariat propagandist, who was deported on Washington's Birthday on the ground of moral turpitude.

This is the same charge that held up Vera, Countess of Cathcart, but Vera happened to be a Countess and she is now in this country.

Selina, who had been in Boston nearly four years, landed at Liverpool today from the Cunard liner Aurania, on her way home to Bridlington, Yorkshire.

"For seven months," she told newspapermen bitterly, "I was kept prisoner behind barred doors by the United States immigration people before they would allow me my freedom.

"Conditions in the Boston immigration station are such that if a woman wanted to be decent, they wouldn't let her. The station is swarming with cockroaches.

"I have been the victim of harsh rules by day and at the mercy of battalions of cockroaches by night.

"The food they offered me wasn't fit for pigs, and the bed, with two blankets and no sheet, would have disgraced a prison. It is good to breathe the fresh air of free England again."

Selina Chippendale came to Boston in 1922, she said, but was notified seven months ago by Government officials that she had entered the country illegally and must leave because she was guilty of moral turpitude.

'SINS AGAINST U. S., NOT AGAINST GOD'

Anton Bimba, who was adjudged guilty in Brockton today by Judge King of sedition and fined $100, but acquitted of blasphemy.

FINED $100 FOR PLOTS AGAINST U. S., PLANS HIGHER COURT BATTLE

Brockton, March 2.—Anton Bimba, radical editor and lecturer, was found not guilty of blasphemy, but guilty of sedition, in Brockton District Court today by Judge C. Carroll King.

He was specifically found guilty of advocating and counselling the overthrow of the government of the United States.

He was completely successful in defending what he claimed was his constitutional right in America to be an atheist and publicly deny the existence of God.

On the sedition charge he was fined $100. He appealed and the fight that will be waged for his exoneration in the higher courts was immediately begun.

Judge King held Bimba in bonds of $500 for trial before the June term of the Superior Court of Plymouth County. A Lithuanian fellow-countryman provided the necessary surety.

The decision was a distinct surprise to Bimba and his attorney, Harry Hoffman of Boston.

Tried under a statute enacted in Massachusetts in 1697, more than eighty years before the first Massachusetts constitution was adopted, Bimba expected to be found guilty of blasphemy in the lower court, but hoped to be able to successfully attack the constitutionality of the Puritan law in the State Supreme Court.

Both his attorney and he declared they expected vindication of the sedition charge.

A crowd gathered about the courthouse doors, many standing in a driving rain to await the court's decision, and when it was rendered the pent-up excitement of the throng was let loose, but police reserves prevented an emotional demonstration on the part of Bimba's friends or opponents.

Bimba was offered the aid of the Civil Liberties Union in carrying his appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States if necessary. Director Roger N. Baldwin of the union said:

"The conviction on the sedition charge raises squarely the issue of free speech. It is the first case of its kind in Massachusetts under the law passed in the excitement of war time when radicals were being hounded."

Under the law the court could have imposed three years' imprisonment and a fine of $1,000 on the sedition charge but Judge King said he did not find that Bimba incited his audience at the lecture here on January 26 to revolt against the government but rather counselled and advised them to do so.

Bimba contended his speech was aimed solely at the overthrow of the political faction in control of the government in Lithuania.

ACCUSED BANK CLERK CALLED GANG'S TOOL

Francis P. Emerson, 29-year-old bookkeeper in the Atlantic National Bank, according to his own confession, became the tool for an organized gang of bank swindlers to get money to support his wife and baby.

The plot, the ramifications of which countless, is said by bankers and detectives to be one of the cleverest yet devised for the looting of banks.

The Federal authorities have taken the case up and are searching out the other men in the ring.

The alleged confession was wheedled out of Emerson after he had been taken into custody and told that another member of the ring, who has now disappeared, had also been arrested and confessed.

It was only after he had been convinced that the "brains" of the organization had told all, and implicated him, that Emerson broke down and, according to the detectives, made a confession.

The arresting detectives said Emerson admitted that he was but a small cog in the money-stealing machine; that he received but little for his important part in the chain.

He told them, the detectives say, that he was getting but a small salary and that when his baby was born he found himself facing debt. It was then, the detectives say he told them, that he joined the ring.

DEATH OF WOMAN ENDS MYSTERIOUS ROMANCE

With the death of the "other woman" in the City Hospital today a suicide pact was consummated, and the real story of Edward Johnson, the 58-year-old father of five children, and his silver-haired woman companion is locked in the grave with the bodies of the actors in the tragedy.

A plain room on Washington street in the South End was the strange setting for the double death. The two died from gas poisoning. Johnson was found dead, and the aged woman, as yet unidentified, died without recovering consciousness.

The motive behind the double tragedy is a mystery. There are a hundred possibilities of a romance that came too late. The grave holds the answer.

For years it had been Johnson's habit to spend days away from his home and family. It was always "business" he gave as an excuse. These trips usually took in the week-end and it is now believed by the police that the silver-haired woman,

GOVERNOR SIFTS MAINE RUM PARTIES SCANDAL

Augusta, Me., March 2.—Governor Brewster was today expected to take a hand in the investigation of parties said to have been given in the shadow of the State House in which confiscated liquors are said to have been drunk.

Men and women prominent in Kennebec County are said to be named in charges fostered by the Christian Civic League, resulting in a probe by Federal authorities and local police.

Stories of the parties were first brought to light in divorce charges made by George S. LaBar, coal baron, whose difficulties with his wife, Grace, are said to be in process of settlement out of court.

It is understood that Governor Brewster will summon many persons before his council, and as a result several prominent citizens are said to have started for Florida.

According to report, those involved are said to have included not only socially prominent citizens, but men in high office.

The Federal investigators are particularly interested in how the confiscated liquor got away.

Two prominent women, who, it is said, were to have been mentioned as witnesses in LaBar's divorce suit, are reported to have left the city.

BIMBA, GUILTY OF SEDITION, PLANS BITTER HIGH COURT FIGHT

'RIGHT' TO DENY GOD UPHELD

Decision was handed down, just as she was all through the trial, and continued to bear testimony to God for both herself and him, she declared.

"I am rather surprised. I would not be much surprised if he had been found guilty of blasphemy, and I would not care, either, but the verdict on the sedition charge is not in accordance with the facts at all."

"We are on our way to the Supreme Court," said Attorney Hoffman. "This was only the first round. We will next try our case in the Superior Court, and if necessary, go higher from there. We will try it in the higher court with the same spirit that we put into our fight here.

"Naturally I am disappointed in the verdict. Bimba was found guilty on the charge I thought he would be acquitted on, and not guilty on the one that I thought he would be found guilty on."

STANDS ON "RIGHTS."

Bimba admitted that he denied the existence of God in his lecture.

But, besides asserting a "perfect right" to do so so he denied the government's contention that he did so in order, first, to impair the faith of his hearers in God and humanity, and then to lead them on to organize for the purpose of violently revolting against the American system of government.

His remarks about revolution, according to defense witnesses, were directed against the government of Lithuania.

Judge King, in his opinion, said, that while Bimba's utterances in this regard were largely the outcroppings of existing political conditions in European countries, nevertheless he found that in answer to questions put to him by some of the audience, Bimba finally advocated and counselled forsaking the ballot box for forcible change of government in this country.

INCITED THEM "TAMELY."

The judge said he realized these questions were put to Bimba by "fighting members" of the audience, by men whose views did not coincide with his, but that made no difference in the conclusion that he reached.

This fact did, however, influence the court to find that the lecturer did not actively incite his hearers to evade but limited himself to advocacy.

Both charges were largely the result of factional disputes between Lithuanian show-workers, according to claims made during the trial by defence counsel.

Most of the government witnesses were members of the Lithuanian-American Citizens Club, while the defense witnesses were members of the Lithuanian Workers Literary and Educational Society, the organization under whose auspices Bimba came to Brockton for his lecture.

Complainants, defendant and all witnesses were Lithuanians.

CASE UNFORTUNATE."

Judge King gave an extemporaneous oral decision in the case and talked on it for twenty minutes.

He complimented counsel for both sides for their fairness in conducting the case and declared he considered the conduct of both admirable.

It was unfortunate, Judge King commented, that such a case should be brought into the court, but if it had no further effect than to convince the authorities of the inadequate condition of the facilities for such proceedings, it would be of service. Conditions in the courthouse, he declared to be "absurd and awful."

"It is unfortunate that our Lithuanian friends who live at the northeastern end of the city should bring their factional difference and their religious differences into court," Judge King said.

"BLASPHEMY OWN VIEW."

As regards the blasphemy charge, the court said: "It seems apparent that there was no sense in the lecturer's bringing his views of God into the protest he was making against the Lithuanian government, but apparently it resulted from the fact, as it appears from testimony here at least, that the Lithuanian government is clerical.

"I do not hold his statements as to personal religion played any part in this case. I am content to leave it that the defendant's declaration of personal belief is permissible under the Kneeland case."

In the Kneeland case, the State Supreme Court decided that such a declaration of lack of faith in God it was permissible under the law of libel, provided it was made without malicious or evil motive.

Judge King said that Bimba's direct lecture apparently was not sufficient to constitute sedition, but his audience contained men who were ready to "get" the speaker, so they put the "fighting questions" to him in order to stir up a full discussion of government and revolution.

Judge C. Carroll King, of Brockton, who found Bimba guilty of sedition, but not guilty of blasphemy, and fined him $100.

POLICE COMB SOUTH END FOR MYSTERIOUS PAIR OF 'POISON JABBERS'

HIKING DOG HAS NEW HOME AT ROCKLAND

Brockton, March 2.—Lucky dog is Flute, the hiking pup whose 300-mile journey from New Jersey to Stoughton has stamped him one of the wonder dogs of the age, heaped envious laurels on his hairy head, brought him a warm home and a generous mistress.

Lonesome and sad yesterday, today he has friends and wags his tail in dog-like joy.

"My heart was touched by him," said Mrs. Sarah Badmington of Rockland, his new mistress, as he cuddled up in a big Morris chair in his new home, comfortable and an "I'll tell the world, I'm happy," look in his eyes.

Flute once belonged to Lyenne Piccolo of Stoughton but the care of two other dogs made it necessary to board Flute in New Jersey. Not for long, however, for the home-sick pup hiked back to the open spaces of Stoughton he once roamed with a collie and St. Bernard.

But he found himself once again removed—to the Brockton Humane Society.

A new chum awaited him, a monstrous German police dog and each wagged his tail in friendly recognition.

Dogs seem to be the thing in the Badmington household for it boasts of many.

"I just couldn't resist Flute," she confided, "when I read of his faithfulness for his old master only to be turned over to the Humane Society. I felt a lump in my throat. Right then and there I knew I wanted him and I had a mighty hard time getting him—there were so many after him.

"His roaming days are over. He'll always have a home and a companion. I love him already. He is so quiet. Maybe because he is strange. But he is so still. Never barks nor whines. Just sits cuddled in the chair.

"Poor pup! He was so hungry and he certainly ate the big meal he got. The custard pie was a treat to him and believe me, he almost did away with a whole pie.

"King Tut, this other dog, will keep him company and he'll have no time for lonesomeness. The open land around my house here will be his playground.

York, supposed to be a candidate for the Presidency on a "wet" platform, responsible for the nation-wide attack on prohibition. The Methodist gentlemen exaggerate Governor Smith's influence. In New Mexico, where the average man never heard of Governor Smith, an Albuquerque newspaper is taking a poll on prohibition and shows that the people of that State, three to one, are in favor of a change in the law.

In Wisconsin a poll shows ten to one for modification.

THREE CARDINALS, Hayes, of New York, O'Connell, of Boston, and Mundelein, of Chicago, highest American officials in the Catholic Church, have publicly expressed dissatisfaction with the workings of the Volstead Act. Dissatisfaction has been expressed also by an influential committee of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

There should be no effort to make the prohibition question a religious issue. It is a question of experience and common sense.

The attitude of Catholic cardinals and the Protestant Episcopal Committee holds respectability to the "light wine and beer" movement. But that was not necessary.

Thomas Jefferson advocated government aid for light wines and beer as the best way of fighting whiskey, which he hated and would have prohibited. He was respectable, he wrote the Declaration of Independence, and was a good enough American.

PORTUGUESE TERRIFIED BY EARTHQUAKE'S ROAR

Lisbon, March 2 (A.P.).—Delayed reports from Central and Southern Portugal show that the earthquake of Sunday night, although felt only slightly in Lisbon, was severely felt in those districts, where it caused a panic among the population and cracked many houses. A subterranean roar heightened the fears of the people, causing large numbers of them to take refuge in the fields. The Lisbon Meteorological Observatory reports that the quake lasted 3 minutes and 13 seconds.

ROMANCE OF COUPLE ENDS IN DEATHS

found in the lodging house room, her arms twined about his dead body, was his week-end companion.

Near the deathbed the police found a half-filled bottle of prohibition liquor. On a table were several empty bottles that had contained ginger ale. The room was in disorder, showing every sign of a rather wild week-end party.

The man entered the lodging house with the woman Sunday morning. He registered as E. Jensen and wife of Lawrence. He left shortly afterward, only to return in a few moments.

The landlady of the house told the police she heard but little noise coming from the room and no sounds of revelry.

The landlady, Mrs. Annie Shamy says she was first attracted to the room occupied by the couple by a strong odor of gas.

It was bolted. She screamed out of a hallway window. Several men, including Policeman Theodore Lintz, ran in. Lintz at first knocked at the door. Receiving no answer he put a powerful shoulder against the panels and burst down the door. He was met by a puff of gas.

Covering his nose and mouth with a wet towel the patrolman entered the room and shut off a gas jet.

He found the aged couple locked in one another's arms. The woman was still breathing. The man was not.

The patrolman tried to resuscitate the woman and then sent her to City Hospital, where it was at first thought she would live.

But as dawn broke the woman sighed heavily and died; the secret of two broken lives sealed behind her death-locked lips.

Johnson's body was identified as the Southern mortuary by his widow and a daughter.

"My husband was a carpenter," Mrs. Johnson sobbed. "He was accustomed to spend the week-ends away from home, but always led me to believe that he was playing cards with friends."

BANK CLERK WAS TOOL OF FORGERY GANG

cates that the scheme to rob the Atlantic National Bank of thousands of dollars by means of forged checks was hatched more than a year ago, and that the conspirators might have got away with it if one or two of those in the plot had not lost their nerve.

The bank, of course, lost nothing, since the thefts as fast as they were revealed had to be made good by the insurance company.

Forged checks so far traced to the gang aggregate $17,931. Of these, two checks, aggregating $9,600, were detected as forgeries before they had been accepted from the clearing house.

The scheme was to use a trusted employe of the bank who had access to the signature cards of depositors to get tracings of signatures of depositors with large accounts. Bank checks were then secured from the bank exactly like those used by these depositors and made out. These forged checks were then deposited in various outside banks by a member of the gang who gave a fictitious name and address in opening a new account.

When the forged check came to the Atlantic National Bank from the clearing house, it was passed by the inside confederate and entered on his ledger. The first of the following month when cancelled checks and statements were ready to be returned to depositors, they were either abstracted by the inside man and destroyed or caused for by one of the gang who presented himself as a representative of the depositor.

BECAME GREEDY.

Revelation of the conspiracy is indirectly due to the fact that one of the gang was so greedy for easy money that he attempted to put through a forged check without the knowledge of his confederates, and his forgery was so crude that a trust company with which he had deposited it became suspicious and got in touch with the man whose signature it purported to bear.

Although the officials of Atlantic National Bank discovered a year ago that checks forged with the names of depositors were coming through the clearing house, they found no reason to suspect that Emerson, one of their bookkeepers, had anything to do with it. Suspicion was directed toward another, however, and he admitted his guilt, his family made restitution, and he was not prosecuted.

"ACCOUNT SHORT."

A man belonging to the "ring" opened an account with the Waltham Trust Company and deposited forged checks for $5,631 and $600, which he also checked out to cash as soon as the forgeries had passed through the clearing house and been accepted by a confederate in the Boston bank.

Some time later, when the Atlantic National Bank depositor discovered that his account was short $6,181, he demanded an explanation. The bank officials started an investigation and discovered that the depositor's cancelled checks for that month had disappeared. Emerson told them that a stranger, who said he was sent by the depositor for the monthly statement, had called for them. The bank officers reprimanded Emerson for his carelessness, but did not suspect him of any complicity.

On April 4 of last year, a man appeared at the Boston National Bank, said he was C. J. Peasley of No. 182 Washington street, Lynn and opened a new account with a forged check written for $6,600. After he had gone the cashier became suspicious and communicated with the Atlantic National Bank. It was discovered that the check was a clever forgery. Although the supposed Peasley never came back or attempted to draw checks on the new account, it was not suspected that he had been warned by a confederate in the Atlantic National Bank.

According to Emerson's story, he became frightened after this happened and asked his superiors to transfer him to another department, thinking that in this way, he said, he would be safe from the threats of his confederates, because he would not have access to the signature cards and would be of no further use to them.

COUNTESS KAROLYI ASKS "FACTS" ON EXCLUSION

Washington, March 2 (I.N.S.).—Countess Catherine Karolyi of Hungary, through her attorneys, asked Secretary of State Kellogg today to day to specify under which of 146 different sub-divisions of the immigration law, or the 46 sections of the same law, he excluded her from this country. The Countess contended, in a brief filed in District Supreme Court that Kellogg's explanation to her mandamus suit that he had merely acted "under the immigration law," was evasive, vague and non-conclusive.

O'Brien of Suffolk County opposed it.

The Cambridge official also expressed hearty sympathy with the Governor's plan to limit the powers of district attorneys and probation officers in the matter of releasing prisoners from county institutions.

District Attorney O'Brien said he was against all minimum sentences and asked the legislature to repeal the law compelling prisoners to serve minimum sentences, declaring the decision should rest with the parole board.

NAMES THREE METHODS.

Attorney General Jay R. Benton enumerated three methods of attacking the crime wave, namely through making use of the present laws, enacting new laws, and establishing a permanent commission of citizens to study the problem.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin opposed the recommendation of the judicial council, which permits defendants to waive their right to a trial in the lower court. Instead of eliminating delay, Registrar Goodwin declared the practice increases it.

There was a large attendance at the hearing, including a sprinkling of women, and anumbe r of prominent law enforcement officers, criminal lawyers and court attaches.

Hub Woman to Hunt Galapagos Specimens

New York, March 2.—William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., society man turned scientist, has sailed for the Galapagos Islands, where the turtles are like elephants as to size, and like rabbits as to numbers.

He left from the Tesco Yacht Basin, Brooklyn, several days ago, taking with him a party of society folks, William E. Belanski, technician of the American Museum of Natural History, a moving picture operator, and a dredging outfit. The company sailed in the Vanderbilt yacht Ara.

Among the guests are Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Warburton, Jr., Mrs. Carter Leidy, the former Fifi Widener of Philadelphia, and her reputed fiance, Gordon Douglas. Mr. Warburton is the grandson of John Wanamaker, and Mrs. Warburton is the former Rosalind Lancaster of Boston.

The purpose of the expedition is to acquire rare specimens of giant tortoises and other interesting amphibians and fish. Mr. Belanski, loaned by the department of taxidermy of the museum, will preserve the specimens and make sketches of them. Part of the collection will be given to the museum. The rest will be placed in Mr. Vanderbilt's own private museum.

The Galapagos Islands, comprising an archipelago of five large and 10 small islands, lie about 580 miles west of Ecuador, and just under the equator. The tortoises gave the islands their name, "Galapago" being Spanish for turtle.

The Ecuadorian government, which owns the archipelago, has given Mr. Vanderbilt and his party permission to land and explore.

The expedition will spend perhaps a month or so on these islands—which are uninhabited, and will then sail for Samoa.

Vanderbilt bought the Ara several days ago from the British. She was a nine-layer of cruiser design and he had her converted into a yacht. The vessel is 230 feet over all, and is equipped with two 500-horsepower Diesel oil burning engines. He has a crew of 18.

COOLIDGE SIGNS BIGGEST APPROPRIATION BILL EVER

Washington, March 2 (A.P.)—President Coolidge today signed the largest peace time appropriation bill in history—the annual supply measure for the Treasury and Postoffice departments, carrying $868,281,501. The bill was the first of the yearly appropriation measures to reach the White House. Of its total, $738,805,303 is to meet Postoffice Department expenses during the fiscal year beginning July 1. This is more than $100,000,000 in excess of the amount appropriated a year ago for the two departments.

KING ALFONSO PLANS AIR TRIP TO ARGENTINA

Paris, March 2 (A.P.)—The Journal says it learns from the Paris correspondent of the Diardio Universal of Madrid that King Alfonso of Spain plans to fly to Argentina for his contemplated visit to South America, piloted by Commander Franco of the seaplane Plus Ultra.

He will be accompanied by Queen Victoria, Premier Primo DeRivera and a brilliant suite. Ten seaplanes will comprise the royal fleet and they will follow exactly the same route that Franco took across the ocean and down to Buenos Aires, but the jumps will be shorter.

Alfonso, the correspondent told the Journal, conceived the idea of the flight when the news of France's safe arrival in Buenos Aires reached Spain. The King broached the subject in a cable conversation with Franco.

"Would you dare take me to Argentina by air?" the King is said to have asked.

"Your Majesty, it would be a most glorious feat for me," replied Franco.

"Are you sure you can do it?" "Your Majesty, most certainly, and with absolute safety."

The Journal says that Alfonso immediately decided to make the trip. That was why Franco and his companions were ordered back to Spain by ship.

Madrid, March 2 (I.N.S.).—The Spanish government today officially denied the fantastic story printed in Paris to the effect that King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, accompanied by General De Rivera, plan to fly across the Atlantic with Captain Ramon Franco. The government described thestory as ridiculous.

Bootleg for Coin to Get Higher Education

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 2 (I.N.S.).—Many University of Michigan students are "bootlegging" their way through the university, paying their expenses from profits derived from the sale of liquor to other students, according to the student guilds of six Ann Arbor churches here today.

Twenty students from the guilds of the Baptist, Congregational, Presbyterian, Christ, Lutheran and Methodist churches composed the committee making the report.

NEEDLE STRIKE END AT HAND

Complete settlement of strike of Boston garment workers looms.

Already 2,000 of the regular workers are again at their benches, having gone back this morning, while another 2,000 employed by contract and jobbing firms are still out.

Miss Anna Weinstock, arbitrator for the U. S. Department of Labor, went into conference with the contractors and jobbers today in the effort to make the strike settlement complete, and it is expected that through her efforts the strike will be ended today.

BABY BORN IN STATION DIES IN HOSPITAL

Tragedy was born as a twist to the baby born in the waiting room of the North Station.

The mother, who said she was Florence Eastman, of Portland, Me., who gave birth to the girl in the woman's room in the station, left her child there and then walked to the City Relief Hospital in Haymarket square, where, it is believed, surgeons say.

The hour-old baby, brought to the same hospital in an ambulance when attendants in the waiting room heard its cries, died shortly after it reached the hospital.

The mother, said to have been a stenographer in the Maine city, hurried from a train. She was crying. No one paid much attention to her as she threaded her way through the hurrying, bustling crowds. A weeping woman is a common sight in a railroad station.

She entered the retiring room. In a few moments she left and staggered up Canal street.

The young woman had been gone but a moment when a woman attendant heard the wail of an infant. It was not a lusty cry; just a puny little whimper coming from an infant a few moments old.

A call was sent to the hospital. A second after the call came in the mother dragged herself into the hospital and managed to gasp out:

"A baby has just been born in the North Station."

"Yes," answered the clerk. Some one has just called us up and told us. But thanks for letting us know."

"But," gasped the woman, "it is my baby." Then she fainted.

She was cared for.

Carol Plans Flight As Morganatic Wife Arrives

Paris, March 2 (A.P.).—With an anticipated converging upon him by female relatives, his former morganatic wife and persons connected with the royal court of Rumania, former Crown Prince Carol is said to be planning a getaway across the channel to England to evade them.

Carol still is keeping closely to his apartment and the curious have seen little of him since he arrived from Italy with the auburn-haired Mme. Lupescu, the daughter of a Jewish merchant of Jassy. It has been asserted there has been a lessening by Carol of the attentions he showed the blue-eyed Rumanian woman.

There is considerable speculation as to what the attitude of Carol will be toward Mme. Zizi Lambrino, his former morganatic wife, who has arrived.

TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF BOSTON MASSACRE

Exercises commemorating the 156th anniversary of the Boston Massacre and the fall of gallant Crispus Attucks, colored leader, will be held in Faneuil Hall Thursday night under auspices of the National Equal Rights League. The anniversary day is Friday, but the annual meeting in Faneuil Hall is held the night before, with exercises on the anniversary day at Attucks' grave in the old Granary burying ground. Thursday night's exercises will begin at State and Exchange streets, at the cobbled wheel where Attucks fell, and then those taking part will march around the old State House and to Faneuil Hall, from which the colored leader's funeral was held.

EDITOR LAUDS HUB AS GREAT AIRPORT

James T. Williams, Jr., editor of the Boston Evening American, was the speaker at the luncheon of the Boston Kiwanis Club at the City Club today, the Kiwanians celebrating "Newspaper Day" and having as guests representatives of various newspapers.

Editor Williams spoke on the "Common Objectives of Kiwanis and the Press."

The speaker was applauded by his hearers when he pictured Boston as one of the great airports of the future.

"Boston is the natural airport for the region," said Mr. Williams, "the natural airport for the aircraft that is here and the aircraft that is yet to be.

"I believe that in this, the airplane age upon which we are entering, it behooves Boston to rise to the responsibilities that are involved in her priveleges if our faith in her destiny I sto be realized.

"The age of the airplane is also the age of the radio and the automobile, an age whose machinery is making for a 'more perfect union' of the North with the South and the East with the West."

JUDGE FLYNN ILL, COURT SUSPENDED IN CAMBRIDGE

Because of the illness of Judge George A. Flynn, the business of the first session of the Middlesex Superior Criminal Court was suspended today. Judge Greenhalge appeared, read the list, and then suspended the session. As the Grand Jury was occupying the first session, the court house was more or less deserted.

FELON SON DIES FOR KILLING MAN

Lincoln, Who Betrayed Britain In War, Says "Sins of Father Visited Upon Boy"

London, March 2 (A.P.).—A notorious spy's race with the hangman was lost today. Ignatius Lincoln, alias John Lincoln, was executed for murder without having seen his father, Ignatius Triblich Lincoln, exiled former M. P., who had started from the Far East when he heard of the death sentence. He wanted to bid his son goodby.

The father had not appeared at Shepton Mallet Prison when time for the execution arrived. The son, a 20-year-old artilleryman, convicted of killing a householder during a burglary Christmas Eve, left a letter for his father.

The authorities refused to delay the execution as sought in petitions signed by 50,000 persons.

Lincoln's victim was Edward Richards. On Christmas Eve, Lincoln, who was in the Royal Horse Artillery, invaded the home of Richards, accompanied by Ian Stewart, 26, to rob the premises. Richards was shot when he returned home and found them.

Stewart was acquitted. In a letter to his sweetheart from jail Lincoln outlined his doings on Christmas Eve and admitted it was he who fired the fatal shots.

"I have never nurtured an evil against any man," said the letter, "but what has happened must be paid for. What the result will be I cannot be certain. Whatever it is, I can take it, so you, too, darling, will have to bear much."

Thich Lincoln worked for the German cause during the late war, playing his role of spy in England, the United States, Germany, Hungary and Austria. He was originally an Austrian subject, but later became a naturalized Englishman.

He was extradited from New York to England in 1916, tried by the British on a charge of forgery and after a brief prison sentence was deprived of his citizenship and deported.

He went to Germany, where he was in charge of the censorship under the short-lived Kapp regime. Fleeing to Austria, he was expelled in 1921 for treason.

He is reported to have written to the son:

"My sins seem to have been visited on your head, and I pray you will forgive me before you die. If I had been a better father, this might not have happened, and I am filled with a terrible regret for my past."

RUSSIA CALLS O. HENRY "AMERICAN MAXIM GORKY"

Moscow, March 2 (A.P.).—O. Henry is the most popular American author in Russia. He is known among Russian readers as the "American Maxim Gorky." A new play called "The Colonial Romance," based on his "Cabbages and Kings," is now being produced in Moscow.

SOCIETY FOLK TURN FROM IDLE PLEASURE TO RESEARCH IN SOUTHERN PACIFIC SEA

Mrs. Barclay Warburton, the former Rosalind Lancaster of Boston, who is one of the most enthusiastic of the society adventurers.

One of the objects of the expedition—the famed turtles of the Galapagos Islands. Other interesting specimens of animal and fish life are to be gathered.

Here adventure and scientific investigation await the society party. The Galapagos comprise fifteen islands and are situated 580 miles off the coast of Ecuador and just under the Equator.

WONDER WHERE HARVARD EATS

Harvard square restaurateurs—a noble wore—have paraphrased the slogan of the doughboy from "When do we eat?" to "Where do they eat?" They refer to Harvard students.

Lunch room and restaurant business in the square and its environs is in a fearful state, according to most of the managers. There are no longer any college dining halls, so the question as to where the students eat is one of the mysteries of the institution across the Charles.

President Lowell says the students are awearied of "eating out" and will soon demand the return of the college dining halls.

Of course some of the men eat in fraternity houses and boarding houses, but this accounts for a very small percentage of the student population, while the Union has a waiting list.

Some sage remarked that a good book is food—perhaps that's the answer.

WINE TUB GIRL FACES GRILL

New York, March 2 (I.N.S.)—Joyce Hawley, pretty young model, whose wine bath featured Earl Carroll's party at his theatre recently, was to appear late today before the March Federal Grand Jury, which is investigating the party.

Carroll, who appeared before the February Grand Jury when the inquiry started, was to be another witness.

Miss Hawley was to be questioned concerning the story that she climbed into a tub of wine and ladled drinks to the guests. Carroll was to be asked where he obtained the wine and who was involved in procuring it.

According to Morton Abrahams, Miss Hawley's attorney, she has not received the $1,000 fee she says Carroll promised her for going through her "stunt." She has threatened to sue the reducer for $100,000 damages.

The Grand Jury desires to learn details of the party and it was believed Miss Hawley could supply information.

HARVARD RULES AGAINST CHANGE IN CLASS COLORS

Harvard undergraduates and alumni will have to go right on displaying the colors of Yale, Princeton and Dartmouth as their class hues, regardless of an organized movement to change the color scheme by introducing a crimson touch to the combinations.

The first protest came when a Harvard graduate, sporting his class colors of blue and white while en route to a class get-together, just after an overwhelming Yale victory over the Crimson eleven, found himself receiving a profusion of unwelcome congratulations from men who thought him a Yale man.

The student government has decided crimson will not blend with the existing combinations, while a complete revision is not desired. The Associate Harvard Clubs have yet to report on their study.

Stoddard is ten years her senior.

FOUR BOYS ON PROBATION FOR STRIPPING AN AUTO

Five Chelsea youths who found an auto stalled in the snow at North Revere, and it is charged stripped it of spare parts, were in Chelsea District Court today. Four were sentenced to 30 days in the House of Correction, but sentences were suspended, and they were placed on probation for a year. They are Michael Delvisson, Harold Holt, Rudolph Cortez and Marino Greolle. The fifth boy was a juvenile.

SUES FOR METROPOLITAN TRUST SALE COMMISSION

Charging that they were never paid their commission for handling the sale of the Metropolitan Trust Company, the firm of B. J. Baker & Co., Inc., today brought suit in Norfolk Superior Court at Dedham against the directors of the Federal National Bank.

The Baker firm seeks $15,000, claims it has asked payment and names Daniel C. Mullowney, Melvin M. Johnson and others as directors.

Juvenile Ice Stars Win American's Skates

Skate enthusiasts enjoyed an evening crowded with action last night when the finals in the Boston Evening American's Gold and Silver Skate Jubilee Races were staged at the Boston Arena.

Dorothy Sahazian and Helen M. Moloney were the outstanding heroines of the racing. The former, a Dorchester girl, captured the gold skates over Grace Wolfe, also of Dorchester, in the 440-yard race for girls under 18.

The speedy Miss Moloney, of Roxbury, out-distanced her competitors in the 880-yard race for girls over 18, though Ethel Mosquard of Dorchester made a yeoman attempt to catch her more experienced rival, and landed the silver skates for second place.

The boys' races were all closely contested. In the 220-yard contest for boys under 14, Arthur E. Nissen, of West Roxbury, wearing the silver skates he won in the preliminary race at Billings field earlier in the season, left the field, save Irong Dorfmann of Mattapan, behind him.

In the 440 yard race for boys under 16, Cyril Bickerstaff of Roxbury, sped over the ice finding only Nicholas Aravanis to deny his supremacy. Nicholas did his uttermost but could not overcome Bickerstaff's lead and was forced to content himself with the silver skates.

Another Bickerstaff brother, Herbert, set the pace from the gun in the 880 yard race for boys under 13 but he could not maintain the terrific speed he cut out for himself and was finally compelled to relinquish the leadership to Louis Allen of Dorchester, who won the coveted gold skates in this event, with Bickerstaff second.

From the standpoint of skating itself, without regard to the competition in the kids' races, the prettiest sight of the night was dainty Miss Maribel Vinson of Winchester in her fancy skating solo.

Miss Gertrude Dutton and Thornton L. Coolidge, junior pair skating champions of the Boston Skating Club, also won the plaudits of the crowd for their grace and ability, while Roger F. Turner of Milton, junior champion of the United States, cut the most amazing figures with an assurance that pleased all.

The young Noseworthy brothers of Malden, Freddie and Eric, were a "riot" in theatrical parlance with their fox and geese chase and barrel-jumping, while the great arena went wild when little Eric clipped a fifth of a second off the world's indoor record for the half-mile for boys under 12 years old.

The youngsters were all delighted with the antics of the clown skater, Harry Fleming of Boston, who mixed some mighty difficult stunts with his clowning as did his "straight" partner, Walter Jackson.

The hockey match between Boston University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, lent a collegiate aspect to the big night. Chipie Gaw's B. U. team was returned the winner after scoring one goal in the second and again in the third period.

BE A BOSTON BOOSTER

2 STORMS MAKE HUB GLOOMY

The murk which shrouds Boston will continue for another day, according to the weather seers, for Boston is the target for two storms from different directions.

The one that is at present descending here was born in Connecticut, but quit that State for Massachusetts when it was only a few hours old.

The other is winging its way down from Ontario and this carries with it the threat of a cold wave.

But until this Canadian storm arrives the mercury will continue to rise.

Quaker Oats "stands by" you through the morning

Feel hungry and "fidgety" before lunch?—try this

TO feel right through the morning, you must have well-balanced, complete food at breakfast. At most other meals—that is, at luncheon and at dinner—you usually get that kind of food.

But at breakfast the great dietary mistake is most often made—a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder; 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamines and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Food that should start every breakfast in your home.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain toast. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers.

Without question the finest selection of coats we ever offered at so low a price.

THUG LETS GIRL OFF IN HOLDUP AS 'GOOD KID'

Miss Pauline Leonard, 25, Talks Man Out of Robbing Her

"You're a good kid an' I guess I won't shoot you, at that," was the rather surprising end of what started out to be a thrilling robbery in the apartment of Miss Pauline Leonard, twenty-five, after the young woman had talked a burglar out of looting the apartment.

Miss Leonard, when she arrived at her rooms in the Washington apartments, Malden, came face to face with a tall, thin, dapper-dressed youth.

He flashed a revolver, the young woman told the police.

Calmly Miss Leonard asked the youth if he had robbed her once before.

"No," he answered, "That was my pal."

She then calmly asked him what he had in his pockets. He produced much jewelry and handed the loot to her.

"You're a good kid," he said, "I guess I won't shoot. S'long."

And he disappeared.

HUSBAND ASKS $25,000 FOR LOSS OF WIFE'S LOVE

MOTHER SEEKS $100,000 FROM DAUGHTER

Princess Lippe Lipski Accused of Disavowing Mrs. Lillian A. Stover as Her Parent

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—Princess Elaine von der Lippe-Lipski today is defendant in a $100,000 slander suit because she has disavowed Mrs. Lillian Agnes Stover as her mother.

Two years ago the American-born princess was awarded a verdict of $100,000 against her half-sister for alienation of affections of Prince Nicholas Vladimir Lippe-Lipski.

Mrs. Stover testified in the trial which began that Princess Elaine, formerly known as Sarah Ellen Phillips, denied in a newspaper interview in October, 1921, that Mrs. Stover was her mother. The princess claimed, Mrs. Stover alleges, that her real mother died when she was 3 years old.

The trouble started, Mrs. Stover's version says, when she was employed as housekeeper for the Carry-On Club for Disabled Soldiers, of which Wendell Phillips, also known as Charles Lee Phillips, first husband of the princess, was head.

Mrs. Stover, widow of a hotel keeper, offered a baptismal certificate as evidence that Sarah Ellen, now Princess Elaine, was the second of her three children, born December 16, 1893, in New York.

Sarah Ellen ran away at the age of eighteen with Charles Lee Phillips, Mrs. Stover declared. After the controversy that started at the Carry-On Club, Phillips disappeared and was thought to have died. Sarah Ellen then became the Princess Elaine by her marriage to Prince Nicholas.

ABERDEEN RESCINDS "DRY" BANQUET VOTE

Aberdeen, Scotland, March 2 (A.P.).—The town council, which in December decided to banish intoxicating beverages from civic banquets, by a vote of 16 to 1, last night rescinded the resolution. The vote was taken notwithstanding the plea of the councillor who moved a December resolution that he wished "to protect myself and my fellow councillors from scenes at civic functions which are enough to make angels weep."

DEDHAM GOES 'WET' IN TOWN ELECTION

G. O. P. Old Guard Wins in Winthrop; Klan an Issue in Ludlow

With women voters and candidates figuring prominently in the results, 84 Bay State towns and seven Maine cities settled their local political disputes at annual elections.

In four cities in eastern Massachusetts the heaviest vote in years was cast, a great diversity of issues drawing the voters to the polls.

On the liquor license question, considered an expression of opinion as to national prohibition, although without any tangible effect, Dedham went "wet" by 1,113 to 1,079.

Wakefield reversed its vote of last year for a limited form of town government. The "old guard" Republican slate swept Winthrop, the successful candidates for selectmen being Joshua A. Hendy, Artemas A. Reade and Joseph Hodgkins. Most of the town officers during the past year were defeated in Clinton and all but one incumbent was turned out in Ludlow, where a Ku Klux Klan issue enlivened things.

Vindication was won at the polls by several town officers of Ashburnham who had previously been ousted from office during a liquor and gambling raid.

Arlington voters elected Hollis M. Gott selectman, Martin J. Gallagher assessor for three years and August A. J. Power assessor for one year. Eldorus Castner, chairman of the assessors, was re-elected in Belmont. In Bedford John Kirkegaard, chairman of the selectmen, was re-elected.

A recount will take place in Canton, where Ernest A. Child was elected selectman by 80 votes over Edward P. McMaus. John Haverty was chosen town clerk; Joseph B. Galvin, assessor; James F. Roach, highway surveyor; Dr. Nathaniel Fuller, for the board of health.

Selectmen elected in Dedham are Thomas H. Doggett, Jr., William M. Bron and John K. Burgess, with George Darling named as moderator. Framingham chose Edgar A. Bowers selectman.

Mary E. C. Geegan was elected to the school board in Andover and Mrs. Lulu Clark to the school board in Acton. In Arlington Mrs. Laura D. Hardy was made a school committee member, while Mrs. Ethel S. Downs suffered defeat.

Roy C. Smith, John King and Frederick H. Lutz were elected selectmen in Holbrook. The Saugus board of selectmen was re-elected, Harry A. Parker was elected town clerk and Edwin K. Hayden was chosen assessor. John R. Gillespie was elected to the board of selectmen in Sharon, and in Stoneham the successful candidates for the board were Leander V. Cobham, George A. Packard and William R. Richards.

Democrats beat Republican opponents in Ellsworth, Lewiston and Eastport, Me. Republicans were elected in Waterville, Saco and South Portland and a Democrat was elected, unopposed, in Bath.

Human Face Gets Longer as World Grows Civilized

London, March 2 (A.P.).—The human face is gradually growing longer and narrower in civilized countries, says Miss Vivian George, chief assistant to Sir Arthur Keith, one of England's most eminent anthropologists, who for years, has been studying changes believed to be taking place in the human skull.

Observation has proved that the change is due to the different ways of life, Miss George says. For example, she says, in olden days a man's jaw had to be much stronger than now, when eating no longer is a physical effort.

MAN TO HANDLE BABY'S RICHES IS HER PLEA

Guardian of Beckwith Heir Wants Trustee Named for $400,000 Estate

Appointment of a separate trustee to handle the $400,000 estate of Lawrence Beckwith, year-old "love child" of Lorania Beckwith, formerly of Norfolk, was asked today in Oakland, Cal., by Anita Hodgkin, the baby's newly-appointed guardian.

Miss Hodgkin, a social worker in Berkeley, Cal., was awarded custody of her girl friend's baby several days ago, defeating Charles E. Houghton of Norwood and Harry F. R. Dolan of Cambridge, who sought the guardianship.

In asking for the separate trustee, Miss Hodgkin declared she would have nothing to do with handling the money to which the baby is heir.

It is in the form of a $400,000 trust fund left by William Beckwith of Boston for the care of his daughter, to whom little Lawrence was born subsequently. Lorania Beckwith died a year ago in Los Angeles, four days after the birth of the boy.

Her friend, the social worker, took charge of the child and was appointed guardian in California and Rhode Island. Houghton and Delan were appointed guardians in Massachusetts.

Several months ago Houghton and Delan petitioned the courts for removal of Miss Hodgkin and for their appointment as full guardians. They charged she was actuated by other than good motives.

The social worker, fighting in the California courts, emerged victorious, however, but today, to remove any remaining taint of innuendo, she asked Judge Koford to appoint a separate trustee.

NAB ARMED MAN IN STOLEN CAR

Edward J. Jackson of Bridgeport, Ct., who, police say, has admitted himself to be an automobile thief with criminal records in several States, was arrested in Brighton by Patrolman Cullen today.

Jackson was seized in a Commonwealth avenue garage, charged with forging and uttering checks and carrying a revolver, when he attempted to cash a $35 check for $20.

Taken to the Brighton station and questioned by Special Officers Willard and Maine, the man is said by the police to have admitted the car in which he was riding was stolen by him in Syracuse, N. Y.

The police say Jackson admitted he had stolen cars in Maryland, Chicago and Philadelphia, and had served sentences in several prisons, including Sing Sing. He told the officers, they claim, that he was paroled from Auburn Prison a month ago and rather than go back there would cut his throat.

Jackson asked to be prosecuted in the Federal court for violation of the inter-state automobile law. He claimed that spare tires on the car he was driving were stolen from in front of the Little Building on Boylston street.

CHAPMAN PLEA IS READY

Washington, March 2 (A.P.).—Counsel for Gerald Chapman, convicted of slaying a New Britain, Ct., policeman and who is under sentence to be executed April 3, completed preliminary arrangements today to docket in the Supreme Court a petition asking an appeal.

Ray M. Wiley of Springfield, representing Chapman, visited the court today and arranged for the filing of papers within the next few days.

The petition argues that the President had not the constitutional authority to grant a commutation of sentence from Atlanta penitentiary over his protest.

Another ground for asking an appeal is to have determined whether a Federal prisoner, undergoing a sentence of a Federal court can lawfully be seized before his discharge and taken into a State court for trial. Chapman's counsel insists that this was done in violation of constitutional provisions.

MILLER-CREWS STARRING IN 'EMBERS'

Splendid Performance Given by Actors in New Play at Hollis

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

THE maternity drama has arrived.

Babies come like snow flakes in "Embers" at the Hollis and the bewildered playgoer has sufficient cause for anxiety if not downright alarm.

The saving grace of Henry Miller's performance was its first class novelty, backed by intelligent acting and a general sweet proposition on the outcome when the babies were swaddled.

There was much that was Continental in "Embers"—the flavor seeped through the first act, developed sensible proportions in the second and third, and completely enveloped the situation in the fourth. Paramount and native sense held the centre of the stage for more than a reasonable period, with both Mr. Miller and Miss Laura Hope Crews contending artistically, if not faithfully, in the main events.

There always is intense, even human, interest in swapped cradles. Those of us who can think back to the delights of "The Virginian" will recall how a dozen were shuffled like so many cards, thereby creating the big knock in the play. In "Embers," the exchange was vitally dramatic, leading to unusual complications and finally clearing up a maze of perplexing complications.

As turned in from the French drama of Rene Wolff and Henri Duvernois, "Embers" plainly exposed the refined touch of the American adapter, Mr. A. E. Thomas. It would be hard to believe that the original text could have been so truly Wesleyan in its explanation of marital misconduct. In this brilliant, Mr. Miller and Miss Crews were sufficiently true to the demands of art that neither of them faltered in the desperate task laid down.

There could be no popular appeal to "Embers" outside the excellence of its presentation—the straightforward plodding of Mr. Miller and the more difficult expression of an unpopular role by Miss Crews. Here alone rested the chief interest in the play. Continental standards are not easily understood on Hollis street, and only the grasp of Miller and the talent of Miss Crews could have aroused "Embers" to anything more than fleeting interest.

There were other tollers, of course, Florence Shirley, a trifle theatrical since her popular flights at the old Castle Square, revealed the unmistakable Broadway stamp, and Edwin Nicander, also a former Castle Square player, made full atonement for a questionable past in stock.

As things move in these uncertain days, "Embers" carried expectant interest—both maternal and paternal.

SHE MAKES FACES AT OLD FATHER TIME

Edna Wallace Hopper, at Loew's State this week, is explaining how easy it is to be 62 and look nineteen.

CORTEZ STARS IN STATE FILM

The flapper who admires Ricardo Cortez is due for a real thrill—for Ricardo is showing the girls what he'll look like when he's forty! And really—he's not so bad, either, in his old age!

This strange peep into Ricardo's future is one of the interesting things in the new Cosmopolitan production of Ibanez' "Torrent," at Loew's State Theatre. The handsome Ricardo is himself up to the end—and then shows himself as he'll be when he's middle aged. The result is startling.

It's a picture ever flapper will rave over. Blasco Ibanez, the author, made an ideal story out of it, and one that will certainly live up to "The Four Horsemen." It's the story of a young Spanish couple—a boy who becomes a statesman and a girl who becomes an opera star—and their love bridges the diverging roads of destiny until the end. Greta Garbo plays the opera star.

Of course there's a splendid cast, too. Gertrude Olmsted, one of the beauties, plays a little bartered bride in a charming manner, and Tully Marshall, the old duke in "The Merry Widow," has a remarkable role. Then there's Arthur Edmund Carew, very mysterious and sinister as the famous opera singer, Edna Wallace Hopper, the eternal flapper, who at 62 found the fountain of perpetual youth and now looks 19, is the feature stage attraction. Miss Hopper explains how she literally re-created herself and emerged, a beautiful butterfly, from the crysalis of old age.

FINE BILL AT KEITH'S

Karyl Norman, the Creole Fashion Plate, dazzled the Keith audience and almost stopped the show with a sumptuous array of gorgeous gowns and tuneful melodies.

Running this act a close second are Hamtree Harrington and Cora Green in "Nobody's Gal." How that girl can sing!

Wesley Barry, the freckled youngster of the movies, fared very well in a tale of bad man and a good boy. We missed his freckles, though. Wesley can perform on the legitimate as well as in the silent drama and his magnetic smile is still going strong. It did with an audience who liked him and showed it in their generous applause. His supporting cast was fine.

All acts are fine attractions this week. Deno and Rochelle, Apache artists, presented something in keeping with the times in their Charleston Apache. Two more brothers and Dave Herman's band adorn the act, which is pleasing and highly entertaining.

If you like your fun of the highly absurd kind, you'd go wild about Tom Smith and his able assistant, Harry Newman, at the piano. Smith is clever.

Will and Gladys Ahern in an oddity, "A Spinning Romance," are good. The act has both class and youth.

Other good acts are Vanlane and Veronica in "Pictures in Sand;" Romas Troupe in their new acrobatic revue, and Three Aces, in "A Thrill a Second." Aesop's Fables, Topics of the Day, and Pathe News complete the bill.

SOUTH SEAS IN DRAMA AT WILBUR

"Aloma" Interests Large Audience as Tropical Play Is Presented

Languor and Scotch, soughing of a tropical breeze in fronds and foliage, flash of brown bodies, naked—lazy morals lured lowly and the mending of a broken soul . . .

If you'll put in that queer jumpy feeling in your throat, half a pint of perspiration beads on your forehead, and a bit of an understanding sob, you'll understand "Aloma of the South Seas," which has had its Hub premiere at the Wilbur Theatre.

Like its predecessors of the tropical stage, "Aloma" brings the conflict that comes when the love theme sounds as between races, never as bald as a mere outline as this drama by John B. Hymer and LeRoy Clemens, presented by Paul C. Mooney.

A man, war-wracked, is told off dead by his believed friend, who marries the girl back home, stumbling brokenly away from civilization to the South Sea, the wronged one sinks into the slough, which is mostly a wash of alcoholics, only to be brought back to health by "Aloma," lovellest of the island maidens. Then the girl who believed him dead, and her husband, the believed friend, arrive on the island.

Mary Ann Dentler, who created "Aloma" originally, gave a wealth of personality in the part and her wooing of Harry C. Bannister as "Bob Hoiden" the broken veteran, was but barely short of irresistable —to Holden.

Her clash and fight for her man with Ruth Abbott as Sylvia Templeton and her drawing from the drunken husband, Ben Taggart, held a packed and perspiring audience spellbound.

The headed brows first became evident when the South Sea maidens, clad only in the haberdashery of the hula—even less, for they wore but a sprig of green leaves, the darlings—danced the South Sea maidens will and to the possible great benefit of tourist agencies.

GOOD FARCE PLEASES AT TREMONT

Irene Bordoni Pleases Large Audience in "Naughty Cinderella"

Lacking even one glance at the playbill of Irene Bordoni in "Naughty Cinderella" at the Tremont, the speculative first-nighter makes the early discovery that he is being treated to French farce of the widest gauge—unmistakably amplified (the program admits it) by the broadening influence of Avery Hopwood.

That means, of course, that the marital complications pile up thick and fast, the bedroom will play an all important part, somebody will suddenly appear in nightclothing, Miss Bordoni will find time between double entendres to burst into song, everybodys' morals will totter perilously close to disaster and then, in the end, somebody will pull the proper lever and the machinery stops suddenly but safetly with nobody hurt and all ending sweetly.

But, no matter, the audience had an evening in the theatre that they are not likely to forget in a long while, for let it be said without further ado that Miss Bordoni held the situation under easy and charming control and, at one time, stopped her own show with a song that the audience just couldn't get enough of. There were four songs in all, three on the program and one, unlisted, but, it is announced, that Sacha Guitry is responsible for the lyrics which are in French, for very good reasons perhaps.

The cast as a whole lent able support but the banner work of the evening is furnished by Henry Kendall in the role of Gerald Grey. Others who toiled diligently and well are Betty Murray, John Deverell, Mary Robinson, Nat Pendleton and Alfred Lima.

HE MARRIED THE CHIMNEY-SWEEP'S DAUGHTER—Rich and fashionable American Duchess of Roxburghe shocked by another astonishing marriage of one of her aristocratic relatives. The story of some of the former May Goelet's astonishing family acquaintances. In the Boston Sunday Advertiser. Illustrated.

GOODNESS, HERE'S SHOCKING NEWS

NOW, WHAT DO you suppose he said? Colleen Moore registers frantic astonishment while Lloyd Hughes looks on. It's in the picturized "Irene" at the Metropolitan.

CLIVE AT REHEARSAL OF "OUTWARD BOUND"

E. E. Clive of the Copley Theatre made a flying visit to Boston from New York last evening to put the finishing touches to "Outward Bound," the piece now being rehearsed for presentation next week. Mr. Clive has been in New York supervising the production of "The Creaking Chair."

Mr. Clive will return to the metropolis to direct the final rehearsals of "The Sport of Kings," scheduled for an early New York production.

AFTER THEATRE DANCE PLANNED AT REPERTORY

The first after theatre dance and midnight revel, "The Silver Forest," will be given in Repertory Hall by the Repertory Theatre of Boston on Thursday night. Dancing will begin at 11, immediately after the performance of Shaw's comedy, "Caesar and Cleopatra," in the theatre downstairs. At the stroke of midnight the velvet curtain of the miniature stage will part for a tableaux a la Ben Ali Haggin, "Cleopatra's Night," posed by the Repertory company.

Stars and leading persons from all plays in Boston will be present.

'IRENE' FINE IN SCREEN VERSION

Musical Comedy Also Proves to Be Excellent in the Movies

It was interesting to see what would happen to the former comedy success, "Irene," now that it has gone the way of all good stage pieces and come to rest in the shadowy Elysium of the movies. That "Irene" has been fittingly beatified is amply proved by its present showing at the Metropolitan, where all doubting Thomases are respectfully invited to go and see for themselves.

It was an "Irene" with all the glory of "Alice Blue Gowns" brought to the fullest possible brightness by generous uses of natural colored films, the heydeish personality of Colleen Moore and all of the tinkling tunes of the original furnishing just the right accompaniment. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that the musical score was further illuminated by big bits from Victor Herbert's "Eileen."

Director Alfred Green has taken what there was of the story and, with the aid of such sure-fire comics as Charlie Murray and Kate Price and the interpolation of some really fine "gags" and subtitles, has turned in a comedy well calculated to make any picture audience roll over in the chairs.

But rising high above all the fluffiness of the beauty parade was the work of one George K. Arthur, as the modiste shop proprietor, who did by far the best bit of acting in the performance.

The stage presentation for the week is "Great Moments from Grand Opera"—three scenes from popular works.

'BLACK BIRD' STARS CHANEY

Lon Chaney, "King of Character," has again made good his claim to this unique title in "The Black Bird," showing at Loew's Orpheum. Chaney has a dual role which makes his famous impersonation in "The Miracle Man," "The Penalty," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and others of more recent date pale into insignificance in comparison.

Great as was the picture, the vaudeville bill was equally good. Heading the program was Earl Lindsay's Revue, with Virginia Franck, the Phelps Twins and a company of clever singers and dancers. There was beauty, grace and talent aplenty, with stage settings that were unusual. Will and Robbie Gordone, "The Wrong Impression," is a misnomer, for no one witnessing their rich comedy could form anything but the right impression. Charles and Grace Keating gave an amusing skit called "Their First Love."

Community singing and short picture subjects completed the bill.

'RARIN' TO GO" OPENS AT GAYETY

Something new under the amusement sun at last! A black and white entertainment that was two and a half hours without a lagging moment. That's Ed E. Daley's "Rarin' to Go," now at the Gayety. Seventy players are programmed and 35 are of each race—Caucasian and colored. The colored folk, naturally were the highest, but combined with their edition of weird jazz singing and buffoning, was an undercurrent of Broadway in "putting it over" that completely won the audience's approval. Jimmie Ferguson, Tim Moore and Jean Lape Richardson, left together in the wake of their comedy, while Florence McLain, Leona Williams, Susaye Brown, Lovey Taylor and Gladys Smith were much in evidence.

Billy Foster, veteran and versatile Dutch comic, headed the white division, assisted in comedy scenes by Elmer Redmond, a Hebrew funster, and Joe Klisch, a skilled character man.

THEIR NEWS OF STAGE AND SCREEN WILL BE FOUND ON PAGE 18.

BAINBRIDGE ISLAND MASTS FOR "IRONSIDES"

The masts of the U. S. S. Constitution, to be rebuilt at the Charlestown navy yard, are to be procured, if possible, from Bainbridge Island, named after Commander William Bainbridge, who commanded the old ship when she fought the British frigate Java, off the East Indies, on December 20, 1812. The offer to donate the masts was made by the West Coast Lumbermen's Association of Seattle, Wash., through Robert B. Allen, manager, and it was immediately accepted by the Navy Department.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Russian Prince to Return to Hub Before Quitting U. S.

PRINCES OF THE BLOOD royal and other representatives of foreign courts are flitting in and out of Boston's social picture with much frequency, receiving throughout their more or less short stays a truly princely measure of hospitality, such as notable Boston matrons are so adept in staging.

AN INTERESTING personage in this royalist influx was Prince Vladimir Goltsine, who came briefly to town accompanied by his aide-de-camp, Colonel Malesaki. The prince, now expatriate from his native Russia, was a shining figure in the court life over which the Czar once held away.

NOW THE PRINCE is established in England. A coterie of old friends, many of whom knew him in the land of the Muscovites before the Revolution, rallied about him to make his short Boston stay of the pleasantest.

MRS. RANDOLPH MORGAN APPLETON entertained twice for the Prince, one hospitality a luncheon and one a tea, and Mrs. Curtis Guild, who has lived in Russia's Court circles as the American Ambassadress, gave a luncheon for this notable.

NOW THE PRINCE is doing a tour of the country, visiting Chicago, New York, and other metropolitan centres before paying Boston another brief visit en route to his home in England.

THAT DANISH ROYAL scion, Prince Aage, who tarried briefly in town and was the receipient of countless courtesies, is due for a return some time about March 15. The Danish Vice-Consul, Andrena J. Blom was naturally a host for the royal visitor.

PRINCE AAGE and Mr. Blom have been friends since school days, so it's quite fitting that the Vice-Consul and Mrs. Blom should lead off in entertaining. On the Prince's return visit another round will be inaugurated.

STILL SPEAKING of royalties and near-royalties, the Duchess of Norfolk and the Lady Rachel Howard, her daughter, whirled in and out of town to the tune of much gayety, allied with the more serious purposes which brought Her Grace to this country.

AFTER A short interlude in the frozen glory of Winter as exemplified by Lake Placid, the Duchess and her daughter are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. William V. Griffin at Sutton place, in Gotham, before they take ship and depart (via the Berengaria), next Saturday.

OTHER INTERNATIONAL notables recently with us already having sailed are Mrs. Stephen Van Rensselaer Thayer and Miss Julia Thayer, who tarried in town for a whirl of entertaining before going on to Niagara Falls.

THERE THEY WERE guests of Mrs. Porter, who is the mother of Mrs. Clarence Rainow Edwards and kinswoman of Mrs. Thayer. Mrs. Edwards has but recently returned from Niagara where she went for a fruity visit.

BOSTON SOCIETY rallied all about Mrs. Thayer and her charming daughter, friends and kin emulating one another in doing them honor. A brilliant round, with Mesdames Gordon Abbot, Timothee Adamowski, Nathaniel Thayer and L. Tucker Burr as hostesses.

MRS. CURTIS GUILD, a leader in many causes, just now sponsors the enrolling of business and professional women under the banner of a new Republican Club.

MISS HOPE GASTON, whose marriage ceremonial on Saturday next in Trinity Church will be a brilliant occasion, came home from a short Gotham trip yesterday to complete all those fascinating last moment plans which keep the bride-to-be engrossed.

BOTH MISS GASTON and Cornelius Conway Felton, the bride-groom-elect, occupy foremost place in the town's Younger Smart Set and there'll be a gay send-off of prenuptial functions in their honor.

WITHOUT DOUBT Miss Gaston, who has a flair for effective adornment, will be as decorative a bride as Boston has seen for many a day, with her brilliant good looks and slender height. Rumors have it that the bridal array is strikingly unusual.

WIFE "NEVER THE SAME" AFTER BEAUTY CONTEST

Toronto, March 2 (A.P.)—Mrs. Marjorie Splan, who was Marjorie Smith, was "Miss Toronto" at the Atlantic City beauty pageant three years ago, has filed suit at Ottawa for divorce from Clifford Splan, a motor mechanic. She charges non-support.

"Miss Toronto" was married shortly after appearing in Atlantic City and her husband declares that "she has never been the same girl" since the beauty competition.

When Miss Smith returned to Toronto from Atlantic City it was reported that she had a proposal of marriage from an American millionaire and hotel owner, but that she had declined it and decided to marry "for love."

Mrs. Splan is now working as a model in a Toronto department store.

PRINCESS DE BRAGANZA REGAINS U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Newport, R. I., March 2 (A.P.)—The Princess Miguel de Braganza regained her American citizenship in Superior Court here today. The princess before her marriage was Miss Anita Stewart, daughter of William Rhinelander Stewart, and was born in Elberon, N. J. In 1909 she was married to Prince de Braganza and became a Spanish subject. Her husband died in 1923. Since 1919 the princess has been living at her father's estate, "The Moorings," here, and has been active in Newport Society.

2 POETS DIE FOR LOVE OF ISADORA'S HUSBAND

Moscow, March 2 (A.P.)—Despondent over the suicide of their disciple, Sergei Yessinin, two young futurist poets, Gregory Hvostunov and Ivan Rakov, have taken their own lives. Yessinin, divorced husband of Isadora Duncan, cut his wrists and hanged himself at Leningrad in December.

News of the deaths of his friends was made public today. Hvostunov and Rakov entered into a suicide pact after Yessinin's death, declaring life held "nothing but sorrow and failure" for them.

The Soviet Union will give them heroes' funerals.

THE inclusion of our regular stock of lighting fixtures in this sale is so unusual that it is an epoch-marking event in value giving. This is in the nature of an acquaintance offer to those who have not as yet visited our Studios in our present location. Our customers will appreciate this rare opportunity to replace at little cost with some desired new fixtures that will add beauty and harmony to the home.

FLOOR, Bridge, Reading, Table, Desk and Boudoir Lamps are included in the radical reductions we have placed on our entire stock of Electric Portables. A number of exclusive Dresden pieces represent particularly good values at the revised prices.

Our large assortment of high grade Silk Shades also share in the general reduction. Also our Fireplace Fittings.

ALL the pieces still carry the original price tags, showing the prices at which they were put in stock and at which any remaining lamps will be sold at the end of this sale on March 6.

Many of the portable lamp designs are limited to one of a kind and we urge your early visit in order that you may make your selections to the best advantage.

COMPETENT salesmen will assist those who desire expert advice in the choice of lamps or fixtures that will be best adapted to meet particular conditions. The variety is so large and the designs so attractive that pleasing selections will easily be made.

EXPLAINS WHY TRANSFORMERS ARE SHIELDED

By E. N. RAULAND

Since an audio transformer cannot well be "homemade," it is not very surprising that there are a very large number of makes on the market. There are so many varieties that it is somewhat confusing to choose from among them the best brand to use in the construction of a new receiver.

Some of this variety is due to the legitimate difference in opinion among engineers, but much of it is merely ornament that is calculated to help sell the instrument by improving its appearance. Nothing is gained in performance by the addition to an audio transformer of fancy miniature panels and cases of high insulating materials, and it is often desirable to have the case made out of iron or steel to act as a shield to prevent stray currents from spreading out from the instrument and interfering with other apparatus in the receiver.

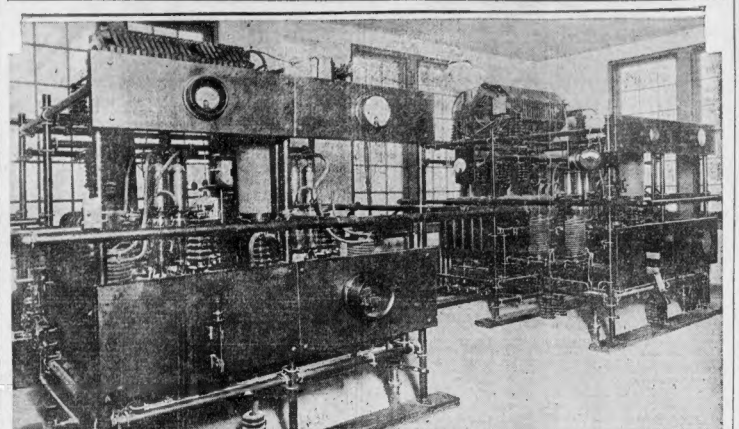
Shielding of iron core transformers is a much mooted question. Careful tests sometimes tend to prove that a well designed transformer requires no shield. Again, cases will appear in which certain noises seem to be traceable to magnetic leakage which should theoretically be negligible.

WNAC CONCERTS FOR VETERANS

Mrs. Erminee B. Woodruff, the Boston soprano, under whose direction a concert will be broadcast from station WNAC, the Shepard Stores, tonight at 8 o'clock, has a worthy and lofty ideal in the program series she plans to present. It is Mrs. Woodruff's desire to present every two weeks a varied program designed especially to please and entertain the wounded veterans in the Army and Navy hospitals throughout the East.

The program will include the old favorite songs, some of the songs of the war period, but mostly those typically American songs which reach the heart of every one. The artists include: Morgan A. Woodruff, baritone; Maurice Quiesian, pianist; Alice Gadbois, violinist; Gertrude Gadbois, 'cellist, and Isabelle Gadbois, accompanist.

50 KILOWATT TRANSMITTER AT WJZ



Most all local listeners have heard the new super-power station at Bound Brook, New Jersey. This station broadcasts the programs which originate at the WJZ studios in New York City. Varying amounts of power have been used, ranging from ten to fifty kilowatts (a kilowatt is equal to 1 000 watts). WJZ has already been heard in all parts of the world, and is obtainable in some parts of Boston on crystal sets. It is expected that much valuable data on high power transmission will be gained through the experiments now being conducted at Bound Brook.

Choose your "B" batteries correctly

THE life of your "B" batteries depends on their size in relation to your set and on how long you listen in each day. Here are the simple rules which tell the right size "B" battery to use:

On 1 to 3 tubes—Use Eveready No. 772.

On 4 or more tubes—Use the Heavy Duty "B" Batteries, either No. 770, or the even longer-lived Eveready Layerbilt No. 486.

On all but single tube sets—Use a "C" battery.

When these rules are followed, the No. 772 will last for a year or more, and the Heavy Duties for eight months or longer, when listening at the year-round average of two hours a day.

NOTE: An Eveready "C" Battery not only increases the life of the "B" batteries, but adds a quality of reproduction unobtainable without it.

EVEREADY HOUR at 9 P.M. (Eastern Standard Time) Tonight

Dear Listeners:

Don't let that "litera-musicale" title influence you. Not so heavy as it sounds. You'll remember, several months ago, the "Evangeline" and "Ancient Mariner" programs. In those, we used long poems with music. Tonight we do the same thing, but with short excerpts from many works of verse and prose. Including Kipling's "Boots."

Prince George, B. C., March 2 (A.P.)—Black timber wolves have invaded the Chief Lake and Murch Lake regions, near here, and are killing moose and other big game.

Elbert Miller, who has a trap line, recently came across the tracks of wolves. He followed the trail to the scene of a fierce battle.

From the manner in which the snow had been trampled and stained with blood, it was evident the moose had put up a great fight, but had been beaten. Miller set a trap and caught one of the pack. The skin of the animal measured eight feet from tip to tip, but Miller was able to get only the bounty, as the skin had been so badly ripped by the moose it was unsalable.

'SHORTY' RUSSICK STAR 'MUSHER'

Here's the man that won the New England dog derby in New Hampshire, "Shorty" Russick of The Pas, Manitoba, who carried the colors of H. I. Dutton to victory in the gruelling 146-mile point-to-point race from North Conway to Ashland and return. His stature is well expressed by his nickname, but he's made of iron figuratively, as was shown by the way he won the race after overcoming tremendous odds that favored at least two of the other ten contestants.

MANUEL ASKS ROYALISTS TO AID PORTUGUESE COUP

London, May 2 (A.P.)—The Lisbon correspondent of the Daily Express says the Portuguese Royalists have been surprised by the publication there of a sensational message from former King Manuel asking all those remaining faithful to him to follow the new political program envisaging restoration of the monarchist party under Prince Duarte Nonos, son of the late Don Miguel Braganza.

The correspondent adds that it is thought this decision will not be respected by Manuel's partisans, who believe it merely an attempt to establish unity among the Portuguese royalists.

COOLIDGE SEES MEXICAN OIL PACT NEAR

President Holds Confiscatory Disputes Is Not as Serious as Public Thinks

Washington, March 2 (A.P.)—President Coolidge sees no reason why the controversy between the United States and Mexico over retroactive and confiscatory provisions of the anti-alien land and petroleum laws cannot be satisfactorily adjusted.

The President was said at the White House today to hold the belief that the differences between the two governments now are not as great as the public has believed. Examination of State Department records, he understands, will show that the points at issue have been relieved of their original importance by recent developments.

Much of the optimistic attitude taken by the President has been indicated in the last two or three days by the State Department officials and by Charles B. Warren of Detroit, former ambassador to Mexico, who conferred with Secretary Kellogg at the latter's invitation.

The American reply to the most recent Mexican communication respecting the land and petroleum laws probably will go forward tomorrow to Ambassador Sheffield for delivery to the Mexican Foreign Office.

LAST OF BAND OF GOLD "FORTY-NINERS" IS DEAD

Evanston, Ind., March 2 (I.N.S.).—No comrade of the California gold rush of '49 will say farewell when the body of George W. Hotchkiss, 95, is lowered into a grave here tomorrow. Years ago, at his own expense, he brought together here 18 veterans of the Argonaut trail. They agreed that one would deliver an oration at each successive grave. None remains to pay tribute to Hotchkiss. He was born in New Haven, Ct., and left home at 17 for California. Forty-eight years ago he came to Evanston with his wife, who survives him at 94, and entered the lumber business. He established the Lumberman's Gazette, first trade paper of its kind in America.

GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY

Many Busy Women Owe Their Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work in shops and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 600 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

Pneumonia! The season is on--

SINCE the dawn of civilization, pneumonia has scourged the human race. Hippocrates, father of modern medicine, described this disease in 400 B.C., and yet after 23 centuries, we know little more about it than he did. The cure for pneumonia is as yet undiscovered. But we do know that colds lower the vitality and hence pave the way for pneumonia. Many fatal attacks, however, might be averted if more of us would follow this maxim—

"Never let a cold get a start"

Pneumonia is now more deadly than Tuberculosis

Government records show that deaths from pneumonia reach their peak during January, February or March. Formerly, tuberculosis, the "Captain of all the Men of Death," as it was called by John Bunyan, was the most fatal scourge of mankind. Since 1916, however, pneumonia has gained the grim title, averaging yearly 52 more deaths per 100,000 population.

Coryza—chinitis—no matter what medical men may call the common cold, it is nevertheless a disease. A person with a bad cold is sick and should go to bed for a day or two.

Complete rest enables the body to regain lost vitality and so throw off germ infection. Unfortunately, it is not possible for all of us to get such rest. The next best thing is to take vigorous action at the first sign of a cold.

At night take a purgative—a hot bath, and plenty of hot lemonade—go to bed under blankets to induce perspiration. Briskly massage the throat and chest with Vicks for five minutes. Then spread on thickly—about one-eighth of an inch thick—and cover with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths.

Leave the covering loose around the neck so the vapors arising from the application on the chest may be freely inhaled.

If there is much tightness or soreness in the chest, apply hot, wet cloths to open the pores of the skin before using Vicks.

If the air passages continue stopped up, try the "teakettle and tent treatment." This method—fully explained in the directions—consists, briefly, of vaporizing Vicks in a teakettle and arranging a newspaper "tent" over the patient's head so that the combined warm steam and vapors can be inhaled.

Being externally applied, Vicks can be used freely without disturbing the digestion. This makes it a boon to mothers. An application at bedtime will usually prevent a night attack of croup.

Above all else, do not let a cold "hang on" and become deep-seated during these danger months. Treat it vigorously in its early stages.

Vicks acts two ways—Internally and externally

When applied over throat and chest, Vicks acts like a poultice or plaster, increasing the circulation and so helping to prevent congestion in the region of the lungs.

At the same time, the ingredients are released by the body heat in the form of vapors and these vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication direct to the air passages and lungs.

The ingredients of Vicks are printed on every package.

MYSTERY BOY TELLS COPS HE IS 'TOM MIX'

He's Seven Years Old, Colored, and Insists on Staying in Police Station

Like the man who caught the bear, officers of Station 2 were unwilling hosts today to a mysterious stranger, who blandly refused to reveal his identity or leave the warm quarters in which he was installed.

Pressed for a name, the stranger, a small colored boy about seven years old, smiled impishly and rattled off "Tom Mix," "Francis X. Bushman," "Richard Dix," and a number of other movie stars, opining that the officers could take their pick.

Then turning to the piano in the guardroom, and using the pick and hunt system, the boy ground out in thin, halting strains, the melody: "I aWnt to Be Somebody's Darling."

He was picked up on Atlantic avenue early today by Patrolman Joseph O'Malley and taken to the Milk street station.

Failing to obtain information from the boy he was put to bed, and when Capt. Perley Skillings arrived at 4 o'clock was called to the office after being given a bath.

Familiar with the ways of boys, Captain Skillings suggested breakfast, and the visitor responded enthusiastically. He demanded an egg sandwich, whipped cream pie and a glass of milk, which were duly provided and consumed.

Wiping his mouth with his sleeve, the boy thanked his benefactor, but smiling refused all information regarding himself, declaring his present condition was perfectly satisfactory.

Then he adjourned to the piano and there he remains, with Captain Skillings muttering wrathfully, but futilely.

EXERCISE AND DIET TALK FOR MOTHERS

Eating Between Meals Flayed by Boston's Deputy Health Commissioner

"When I urge you to diet, I don't mean for you to become enthusiastic and starve yourself for the rest of the week. Diet comfortably."

So said Dr. Frederick Bailey, Boston's deputy health commissioner, speaking to the Boston Evening American's "mothers" class at the John J. Williams gymnasium.

"Refrain from eating one or two things and you will find you will lose a pound a week. A reduction that high would be quite sufficient as a starter," said Dr. Bailey.

The physician urged his hearers to discontinue eating between meals.

"It is bad," he asserted. "It is not in accord with a regulated diet coupled with proper exercises.

"It is unwise to exercise other than what is advised you by experts," said Dr. Bailey. "You may think walking is a powerful medium of reduction, but with most women it creates greater appetite, and more weight is gained."

Classes will be conducted at Cabot street hall and the John J. Williams gymnasium every Monday and Thursday at 2:30 P. M. Evening sessions also will be held every Monday and Thursday.

End That Cold —Tonight

With Hot Lemonade

WHEN you're sneezing—when you're chilly—that's the time to stop a cold.

Take a good, old-fashioned hot lemonade—as hot as you can stand it. Then a hot bath and go to bed, with plenty of warm covers. You will note the difference in the morning.

The effectiveness of hot lemonade in the prevention or treatment of a cold is due to more than its heat.

Thousands used this effective and easy method during the influenza epidemics. You, too, will profit by doing likewise if a cold impends.

Mothers now keep lemons always in the house for such emergencies. Children should have this healthful drink. If their feet are wet after playing outdoors give them a hot lemonade. It's good insurance against colds and more serious results.

It takes but a few minutes to prepare it. Just squeeze the juice of a lemon in glass or cup of hot water. Add sugar if you wish. The time to act is when you first suspect the cold. Do this tonight if you feel chilly.

California lemons make the best lemonade. They are practically seedless, tart and heavy with acid juice. Buy them at any first-class store. Try the "hot lemonade way" tonight.

A PIRATE of HEARTS

By BEATRICE BURTON
Author of "GILDED KISSES"

The Love Story of a Boston Girl Who Wants Only One Man---and the Husband Who Strayed

"We've had plenty," giggled Fay, leaning on Ranny's arm, "and it wasn't food or water, either."

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR, who looks like a flirt but isn't one, is engaged to marry RANDALL PHELPS. He asks her to break their engagement, and tells her he's in love with her best friend, FAY SHIRLEY.

Sylvia gives him up, greatly to the satisfaction of her maiden aunt, AGNES STARR, known as Aunt Agony, with whom she lives. Aunt Agony says that Ranny is a lazy, good-for-nothing, and urges Sylvia to marry PETER WILK, a steady man, several years older than herself.

Sylvia discovers that Fay, who expects to marry Ranny in June, is seeing a great deal of her former fiance, EDDIE CARTER. Ranny is extremely jealous of him.

On Sylvia's birthday, on the 10th of May, Peter gives her a picnic supper in the woods. At 9 o'clock Fay and Ranny have failed to show up, and the crowd goes ahead with their supper. Sylvia feels sure that the pair have eloped.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER VI

As she spoke, two yellow headlights gleamed like tigers' eyes through the trees.

"There's an automobile heading in this way from the road, now Eddie," she cried. "Let's go and see if it is Fay."

Together they left the fire and made their way carefully through the darkness. The headlights suddenly disappeared and another smaller light took their place.

"They must have a flash with them. Let's stand here and wait for them!" panted Eddie. He was very fat and the May night was very warm. Moreover, the ground was uneven and he hated exertion anyhow.

"Let's wait here," he repeated.

In a few minutes they could hear voices—Fay's and Ranny's. The pair were evidently having a heated argument.

"I'll do as I please, anyway they heard Fay say. 'It's not a bit worse for a girl to drink than it is for a man to do it, and it's none of your business anyway.'

Then a low growl from Ranny—then silence, broken only by the

SENATE WON'T PROBE OUTLAWRY IN CHICAGO

Washington, March 2 (A P)—The Senate judiciary committee today declined to approve a Senate investigation of crime in Chicago. A resolution introduced by Senator Deneen, Republican, of Illinois, presented to the Senate through Vice President Dawes, was voted down unanimously and suggestion of some Senators that it be referred to the Labor and Treasury Department's was frowned upon by Chairman Johnson, who declared he did not want to "pass the buck."

STILLMAN FOR 'PEACE CHAIR'

Plans Department at Harvard to Promote Abolition of War

Young Chauncey Stillman, whose uncle, Jimmy, is now honeymooning again abroad with his wife after a long divorce suit engagement in the courts, wants Harvard to establish a chair that will have to do with the study of abolishing war.

Chauncey, whose father recently endowed him a room by purchasing Beck Hall, exclusive elete dormitory for half a century, is so worked up about his scheme that he has written the Crimson all about it. Chauncey is a freshman. He says:

"I oppose the suggestion of having a new chapel, since worship is irretrievably dissociated from Harvard, and also the suggestion of a monument for a war memorial because such a memorial is at best a rather sterile and lifeless affair.

"Harvard stands for deed, and ideas live and breed while stones and mortar crumble. Would it not be more appropriate both to Harvard and to the war-killed men whose memory we seek to celebrate to endow a chair or fund to promote the abolition of war?"

Chauncey senior recently endowed a chair of poetry at Harvard, and has been a benefactor of that university in many cases.

DAWES MAY SETTLE ITALIAN DEBT VOTE

Washington, March 2 (I.N.S.)—Vice-President Charles G. Dawes may be the determining factor in ratification of the Italian debt settlement. This appeared to be more than a mere possibility today when informal polls of the Senate revealed a division so close that it may take the vote of the Vice-President to break a tie. Opponent of this situation, administration leaders have importuned Gen. Dawes to "stand by" once the Italian agreement is brought to the Senate floor. They still remember poignantly that Charles B. Warren of Detroit would be attorney general today had not Gen. Dawes been taking a nap when the Senate divided evenly, voted on his confirmation.

Steal Priceless Antiques

New eYrk, March 2 (A P)—Three tapestries, valued at approximately $40,000, were stolen today from the art shop of Barton Prince & Willson, East Fifty-seventh street. The value of antique jars stolen was not given but one of the owners said they were "almost priceless." Art objects in the shop totalled approximately $500,000 in value.

Killed by Auto

Mrs. Bessie Adlow, mother of Rep. Elijah Adlow, killed when run down by an auto driven by Theodore Koslow, 17, of Roxbury.

YOUTH HELD IN AUTO KILLING

Charged with manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Bessie Adlow of Roxbury, mother of State Representative Elijah Adlow, Theodore Koslow, seventeen, of Maywood street, Roxbury, was held in $2,000 in Roxbury District Court today for a hearing March 18.

Koslow was also charged with operating an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. Mrs. Adlow was killed and another woman was injured by his car as they were crossing the street at Humboldt avenue and Hollander street.

Mrs. Rose Sirk, seventy-six, No. 8 Hollander street, Mrs. Adlow's companion, suffered a wrenched right forearm and abrasions on the legs and knees.

According to witnesses, the two women had just stepped from the curb of Hollander street, when young Koslow's car came down on them at terrific speed. Mrs. Adlow was struck by the radiator and hurled several yards. Mrs. Sirk was struck by the right fender and knocked to the curb.

SAYS KENNEDY DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

Brookfield, March 2.—The death of Daniel S. Kennedy, whose body was found in his garage on the eve of his trial on a serious charge involving a 15-year old Brookfield girl was accidental.

This announcement was made by Medical Examiner Charles A. Deland of Warren, who investigated the case and found death due to carbon monoxide gas poisoning.

TRAINS GOT TO WHISTLE FOR HOUN' DAWGS, TOO

Little Rock, Ark., March 2.—Dogs are entitled in the same consideration as humans when locomotive engineers are concerned, the Arkansas Supreme Court ruled. The court awarded M. V. Bains $50 when it was proved a train that killed his dog did not sound warning to the animal.

CITY HEADS AGREE ON PROGRAM

Legislature Asked to Approve Meeting of Expenditure by Taxation

Mayor Nichols, the Finance Commission and the School Committee were in harmony on a four-year school construction program at a hearing today before the Legislative Committee on Municipal Finance.

The program calls for the expenditure of $13,000,000, of which $4,000,000 would be spent in 1926, $3,000,000 in 1927, $3,000,000 in 1928 and $3,000,000 in 1929.

The mayor, in his discretion, would be authorized to raise by loan not more than 40 per cent of the sum necessary to be raised by taxation in any one year.

By far the larger share of the $13,000,000, $8,810,000 is allocated to high school construction. For intermediate schools $3,195,000 is set aside and $2,546,000 for elementary schools. Under the program as outlined it is expected to eliminate about one half of the existing 225 portable school rooms.

"LA SALLE STREET WOLF" DIES IN U. S. PRISON

Atlanta, Ga., March 2 (I.N.S.)—The "Wolf of La Salle Street" is dead. John W. Worthington, sixty-four, of Chicago, one of the country's most spectacular "get rich quick" operators, who amassed a fortune of $2,000,000 by his unlawful swindling operations, succumbed today to a combination of diseases in the Atlanta Federal penitentiary today. Worthington, who had taken refuge in Mexico after he was sentenced to serve two years for misuse of the mails, returned to Chicago last October and surrendered, declaring he had "come home to die."

ITALY REDUCES TIME FOR REGAINING CITIZENSHIP

Rome, March 2 (A P)—Italians who become citizens of the United States or other countries automatically regain Italian citizenship after less than a years residence in the mother country, the Cabinet decided today. Previous regulations required two years' residence in Italy. The Fascist government is empowered to refuse reparation for grave causes.

QUEEN'S COUNSEL

by Queen of Romance

ONE ALWAYS PAYS

"NOTHING for nothing," as I have before said. But I must come back upon those words again because they are fundamental truth.

"Nothing for nothing." No bread without money, no money without work. No day without night, no glory without effort, no life without death.

But what I have in thought particularly today is this. We all have our duty cut out for us. We have been given rules for morals, religion, on what we owe to society, the State, God and ourselves. These are given us in straight lines, in trite sentences, in all the different Thou Shalts and Thou Shall Nots. And with this we are sent out into the world to sink or swim.

Each cuts his way through life as he can, some well, some badly, according to "make" and environment, according to strength, fortune, education, intelligence.

But one thing we all learn soon: That no event but has its result, its continuation, its sequel, as surely as the stone falls to the ground. The law of cause and effect is as sure as the law of gravitation. Nothing stands still or is ended with itself. The aftermath is there to be reckoned with. The effects go on and on.

A girl came to me once to ask what I thought about "leading one's life."

She was sorely tempted, she said, to give way to passion, leave the straight pathway of her parents' training and take her chance. Would it be "worth while," she asked.

"Child," said I, "each thing is worth while according to the greatness of our desire for it. But everything has to be paid for and it is hard to know beforehand whether the price will be too high.

"You may look about you and think many take what they please from life and are not charged with it. I do not think they get it for nothing. The 'credit' may be long, but in the end they must settle the account—though you may not see them when they do it.

"Every smallest act of ours has its result. Are you ready to pay when the moment comes? Are you ready to pay in whatever coin is asked—shame, tears, money, health, youth?

"No one can help you pay it, either. Life doesn't allow the debt to be shifted upon others. Take if you are ready to pay. If not, then stick to your straight road."

NEW CLEW IN MOVIE KILLING

Coast Officials Locate Lost Mystery Witness In Wm. Desmond Taylor Case

Los Angeles, March 2.—The Los Angeles Examiner says it has learned that District Attorney Asa Keyes and Deputy District Attorney Harold L. Davis secretly left here several days ago for the East to investigate recently unearthed clews in the William Desmond Taylor murder case.

Edward Sands, the director's valet and secretary, disappeared at the time and was never located.

Sands, understood by the newspaper to have been located in Detroit and the district attorney and his assistant are declared to have proceeded to that city. From Detroit the officers will go to New York and there interview two well known motion picture stars, the Examiner says.

Though an exhaustive investigation was made, during which many film actors and actresses were questioned, Taylor's murder was never solved.

19 ARRESTED IN KARLSBAD REVOLT

Prague, March 2 (A P)—Rudolf Ressler, an architect never heard of before ended such a state of affairs by a coup d'etat that made him dictator of the Karlsbad district a few hours. He and 40 of his workers revolted and arrested the Governor. Then he and 18 of his plotters were pinched themselves.

Inside Story of My Split With Kearns—By Jack Dempsey

MANAGER AND CHAMP NOT PALS

Dempsey Says He Lived in Seclusion While Partner Followed Bright Lights

By JACK DEMPSEY.

CHAPTER 10

ALTHOUGH Jack Kearns and I were hooked up for eight years in a most intimate partnership, we never were real friends; there were never any bonds of affection between us such as tie old business partners together.

The ways of Kearns and my ways were somewhat different. In the training camps it was my job to live quietly, and in certain seclusion and outside of training days I did not vary the routine of my life. I never was keen about cabareting around or "busting loose" and I've tried to live sanely, cleanly and quietly.

Kearns decided that, as manager of a world's champion, it was vital for him to mingle freely in the night life of cities. I never had a quarrel with him on this point because I felt that what he wanted to do in private life was of no concern to me.

ENVISIBLE BARRIER.

Kearns and I traveled together for hundreds of thousands of miles in making one tour or another. We were in each other's company frequently through the weeks, months and years.

Outwardly, when we had visitors, we were seemingly friendly. But there was an invisible barrier between us. We just did not hit it off together. I do not think that Kearns actually disliked me, and I know that I did not dislike him. But our temperaments, our ways and our desires were different. We had little in common beyond the manager-boxer partnership.

Through the earlier years we each kept our money in our own accounts, after Kearns made the "drive." But some years ago when real estate was booming in California we conceived the idea of throwing some of our stakes cash into the acquisition of certain good properties in that city.

So we jointly bought the Wilshire Apartments, and also the Hotel Barbara, a new one near Westlake Park in Los Angeles. The land values of both properties quickly increased.

Through the last eighteen months Kearns and I, without any fights on our part to draw us together, drifted more and more apart. In our meetings things came up which might have been settled harmoniously—but were not. There was friction, a little more friction—and still more friction.

HOTEL A HOBBY.

Oddly enough, a part of it came over the hotel. After we had purchased it the place became something of a pet of mine. All through my fighting years I had aroundfor something to do after somebody chipped me on the chin. I had didn't settle upon anything until we got the hotel—and then, of a sudden, the big idea came. I'd be a hotel keeper.

So in my idle time I studied the hotel business. I went to men long identified with the game and got pointers from them.

I applied all my knowledge to the hotel and the upbuilding of it. But all this while Kearns was regarding the hotel as some sort of a playground for himself—and his friends.

Those fellows took possession of the place as if it were their own home. The boxers began to use the lobby for shadow boxing exhibitions and for a recital place concerning their fighting duties.

The result was easy to foresee. People who were really fine guests and who liked the hotel for itself didn't take kindly to having the lobby, where they used to sit at nights, transformed into a gymnasium. They moved out.

So I went to Kearns and told him we'd have to re-shuffle the cards and change the policy of the hotel. Kearns stood pat on operating it along the existing lines.

And then I lost my patience and told him I'd be damned if it would; that the Barbara was going to be a hotel—not a boxing palace. And my way prevailed.

The affair, however, merely added to the coolness between Kearns and myself. Other things came up. He kept firing at me the statement that he "made me."

But the "blow-off" came when I decided I would marry Estelle Taylor and Kearns promptly took the attitude that while I was champion under his management, it just wasn't going to be done—and that I was to remain single.

Tomorrow Dempsey will tell how his marriage to Estelle Taylor was the cause of his final quarrel with Kearns.

FAMILIAR FIGURES WHO WILL GUIDE DESTINIES OF BRAVES

GENEWICH

DEVLIN

Who received his training under John McGraw, pitching for the old Giants, will offer valuable assistance to the Hub outfit, both as scout and helper to Rudolph with the local twirlers.

BANCROFT

The hub of the wheel. Around Bannie will the 1926 Braves be built, and he will provide not only the necessary elements for an A1 shortstop, but all the qualities of a rare leader.

RUDOLPH

Considered to be one of the most valuable figures in the Braves family. Dick's sagacity in farfamed, and a teacher of pitchers he has few if any equals

GRAHAM

Is another pitcher about whom hinges much of the year's success. The Alabaman showed up well in 1925 and should continue to fling his puzzling shoots to the consternation of opposing batsmen.

BROOKLINE COACH PLANS SHAKEUP

By EDDIE DONDERO

Unsatisfied with the guest performances of the Brookline High relaysists, Coach Tom Hines, a sportsman to the very core, will shuffle his athletes around a bit before the State meet next Saturday at the East Armory.

Hounded by a jinx, robbed of a handsome silver trophy at the Huntington interscholastics and the relay championships at the triangular classic recently, a big change with several new faces making their initial appearances is due this week-end.

While overhauling his track machine, Eddie McGrath, the schoolboy sprint champ, will replace Anderson on the varsity relay quartet. Andy Murray, Eric Smith and Teddy Cole will probably be the other members of the makeshift aggregation.

Without any hesitation, it is safe to state that Coach Hines has one of the best relay teams in the State with no reflection on any other school whatsoever. Overlookin those two unfortunate starts, they would have proven their rights to such honors.

After cautioning every member the varsity squad, Hines feels confident that his athletes will finish on top of the point totals the Armory meet which they have made their objective. Critics have made them a distinct favorite in Class A competition. Boston English and Medford are its lone rivals in an already lopsided game.

Lawrence High's relay artists turned in some startling work after week of duress in the Class B and Class C competitions. Boston English and Medford are its lone rivals in an already lopsided game.

LOS ANGELES EAGER TO SEE HOFF IN ACTIO.

Los Angeles, March 2.—"Bring Charley Hoff."

This is the hue and cry set up l Los Angeles track and field fans since A. Barney Hoff of the University of Southern California established a new American record in the pole vault from the Tenney was hailed by Hoff more, a few hours after Barnes had achieved his undreamed of height, this peaky Norwegian person exactly duplicated it indoors.

NOTES FROM THE TRAINING CAMPS

The Philadelphia Athletics had their first real workout at Fort Myers, Fla., when Connie Mack was very much over the fact that his entire squad was present. The Centennial Reds were on the Orlando playing field including Pitcher Carl Mays, who went in and shot them over full six for half an hour.

The St. Louis Cardinals suffered a casualty when Willie Schang, recently acquired from the Yankees, was hit on the head by a bat. He was not seriously hurt Thursday, members of the squad ate at San Antonio.

The Detroit Tigers vanguard ...sting of six pitchers and four catcher ...rsed out at Augusta, Ga., camp. Rest of 17 men will arrive today. The Cleveland Indians ... all hands on deck at Lakeland, Fla., ... the first practice session.

The champion Pittsburg Pirates have been forbidden to accept betting wagers them by passing motorists, by order of Bill Madden, and taking in now a regular part of the training schedule.

The Boston Braves were witnessed Babe Ruth's first home run. Tony Lazzeri, high priced Coast infielder went through his first workout

Bruins Vs. Canadiens At Arena Tonight

By BILL GRIMES.

Before the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a hockey game in this city, the Boston Bruins will meet Les Canadiens this evening at the Boston Arena. The demand for tickets for this contest has been the heaviest ever experienced at the Arena. The seats have all been sold.

The Bruins are in third place in the N. H. L. by a margin of a single point over Pittsburgh. The Pirates are playing the Maroons in Montreal this evening, and they are looking forward to a victory which will force the Bruins out of the play-off berth, unless they take Leo Dandurand's "Flying Frenchmen."

The Rossmen were tired and sore when they returned from Ottawa. They favored to break up two points ago but the Senators but the league leaders were right at the top of their game, and bested in the local engagement.

Although the Canadiens are in last place, they are one of the hardest outfits in the league for any team to defeat. The Viking Speckin guys always appear at their best in the Arena, and the Bruins realize that they must be right in order to win and stay in third place.

The Bruins have been through a tough siege battling their way from last to third place. Many of the boys are pretty well bruised up, but they are carrying on without any complaint.

In spite of their injuries the Bruins are playing great hockey. They are out to get in that play-off. The Bruins will leave for Montreal Wednesday night, where they are to tackle the Maroons, and then return home for the Ottawa game on Saturday evening. These three tough games will be the make or break of the Bruins' season.

Sport Briefs

TOM WHELAN of Lynn, manager of the Nashua team in the Twilight League last year has obtained his release from Indianapolis and applied to Secretary Farrell for reinstatement. He has offers from managers both the Lynn and Lowell teams in the New England League. It is reported that he will accept the Lowell offer.

TENNIS STALLS Palmer, heavyweight wrestler will fight Luis Angel Firpo at Boston Arena March 8. Stalls has served in the Argentine.

LLOYD HAHN running in New Zealand was defeated for the third time by the New Zealand champion Ross over the cross country course. Ross's time was 4 minutes 19 1-5 seconds.

ALFRED K. CHAPIN JR. of Springfield, thirteenth ranking team's player, was his match in the Davis tennis championship at Tampa, losing the measure of C. J. Dolan of Chicago.

BERNIE FRIBERG of Lynn leaves to-night to join the Pittsburg Pirates at Bradenton, Fla.

FORT MYERS Fla. March 2 (NEA)—The Philadelphia Athletics ran only play on Sunday, according to a notice posted at training quarters here today.

New York, March 2 (A.P.)—Jean de Crawhez, owner of the largest racing stable in Belgium and a leader on the Belgian turf, fled to this city.

"I'LL BE RIGHT IN THE RING!" SAYS JACK

New York, March 2 (A.P.)—"I honestly and sincerely believe I am as good today as the day I won the championship from Jess Willard," said Jack Dempsey here. Naturally, I am a bit ring rusty, but I've never given up fighting. That's part of my regular exercise.

"I'll be ready when my time comes. But I'm not going to be rushed into anything near as soon as some people may imagine. And it will not be because I won't fight.

"I am ready to step into the ring as soon as I'm shown the money and a guarantee protection.

"And when I get in there to defend my title I'll be right. I'll take a real fighter to knock me out or else make me stay down.

"If I am ever whipped it will be by the fists of an opponent not by Broadway.

"I like my recreation and amusement as well as anyone else, but for every hour I spend in a cabaret or palace I spend 100 in the open air. You can't be a champion in anything and hit up the stuff. Fortunately for me, I realised that early in my career."

HELEN DRIVES FIERCELY TO WIN LOVE SETS

Mentone, France, March 2 A.P.)—Making her first appearance in the Mentone lawn tennis tournament, in which she is seeded at the top of the draw Miss Helen Wills, the American champion today swept Charlotte Mead Daley Hamerton of England 6—0 6—0.

Miss Wills played a fierce driving game against her weak opponent, as though anxious to end the match as soon as possible. Some of the spectators remarked that the American champion lacks has acquired what she used to term in Mlle Lenglen the "killing instinct," never letting her adversary gain a game if possible to prevent it.

Thus far Miss Wills has played fast hard enough to win apparently no caring whether or not she vanquished her opponent in love sets.

After the match she said that she will remain on the Riviera another month and then go to Italy.

"I may take my racquets along," she said, adding that she had been invited to play at Rome, Milan and Genoa.

Senorita De Alvarez of Spain, one of the two seeded players in the lower half defeated Miss Thomas of England. 6—1, 6—0

Milan, Italy, March 2 (A.P.)—Suzanne Lenglen is expected to arrive here on Thursday, proceeding to an Italian Alpine resort for a rest. Afterward according to Alberto Bonacossa, president of the Milanese Tennis Club, she will probably play several matches.

FLATLEY WITH BRAVES

Old Time Swatters
Thomas Sees Stars
Burrus Reduces
Banny Teaches

—By NICK FLATLEY—

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. March 2—Bishop, the famous slugger from the Pacific Coast, looks like one of the old-time swatters.

He's big and burly and dark, and takes a terrific cut at the baseball. He swings himself off his feet when he misses and attaches two hundred pounds of beef to the ones he hits. His eye hasn't focussed, yet but he has managed to judge a few long distance clouts. You can take it from us that he is no gazelle in the matter of covering ground, though.

Nick Flatley

LITTLE HERBIE THOMAS was the first victim of accident. He ran in for a hot grounder, slipped in the soft going and stopped the baseball with the top of his head. The whack made the young man see stars, and raised quite an egg on his dome. He's a fighting youngster and kept right on playing.

DICK BURRUS is one of the world's greatest hunters. He went out after ducks and geese every day during the Winter season in Louisiana and came home invariably with a limit bag. He's supposed to be one of the very best wing shots in the South

He wanted to keep down weight so he spent the nights coon hunting. Result, he tips the scales twenty pounds lower than he did last Spring.

MANAGER BANNY is considerably impressed by the baseball ability of the Cuban, Estrada. The young chap, who looks like a Castilian, hits the onion right on the meat, and picks it on good balls. He's fast as a greyhound and can go and get them in the garden. He has been playing Winter ball in Cuba, and is in real shape He will not stick out so much when the other boys melt themselves into trim.

BANNY has gone right to work to get some batting finesse on his ball club. He thinks he has enough straight hitters, and wants to teach the boys the fancy stuff.

He drilled all the regulars for an hour on hitting only good balls. He claims that several of his athletes would nudge the marble for .400 if they could stop chasing bad ones He also makes the whole squad practice bunting at each session

THERE are eight athletes on the field these days who don't touch the bar when it's at five feet five. Gautreau, Thomas, Kibbie, Padgett, Hearn, Taylor, the infielder High and Nole are all sticks. They're all good ball players, more likely than not to chase some of the giants right out of jobs. The acquisition of Brown, Foster, Ed Wards and Bishop has given the club all it needs in height and weight

ZACH TAYLOR, the catcher from Brooklyn, is nursing a sore toe A wild pitch inflicted it while Taylor was standing with the crowd around the batting cage

He says it a good experience, as most of the catchers have them chronically during the season. Zach swings a mean shillalagh, as though he intended to add a lot of real punch to the Brave assault

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER B. HORTON

Regarding the manner of weight shifting during the golf swing one may not be required to make such strenuous exertions where natural instincts are followed—always a good practice in studying the golf swing—for comparisons that lead to the sure ground of common sense, such exertions as swinging a baseball bat or swinging an axe. Even such a common thing as ordinary walking is an excellent basis for comprehension of how the weight shifts in the golf swing. You can look at pictures of 1,000 different good golfers finishing a swing and every one of them will be shown solidly on his left leg, yet pros will still tell learning golfers the weight does not shift.

QUINN ASKS EX-TIGER TO REPORT

Fred Due to Start Season at Third, but Geygan Is Ready If He Fails to Sign

By JACK CONWAY

New Orleans, La., March 2.—Fred Haney, former Tiger, is today the only unsigned player on the Red Sox roster, other than Rudy Sommers, Bob Hale and Jack Murphy who have been told they first must show pitching class before they will be tendered contracts.

Haney was traded to the Sox last Winter. Bob Quinn sent him a contract, but it was never returned Haney has failed to state whether his contract was satisfactory or not

Ty Cobb's former third baseman has been sent a telegram by Quinn, in which the latter inquired as to when Haney will start for camp and also if he intends to sign the contract that has been submitted to him

Haney batted for .279 last season and had a fielding mark of .952. He is expected to start the season at third base for the Sox. His most serious competitor for this position will be Jimmy Geygan, who has been working out at the hot corner during the practice sessions here

Phil Todt is the selection for first base. Walter Shaner, who can play first base as well as the outfield, is being trained as his understudy For a big few on Shaner now is among the first sack with a lot o peep

Second base is anybody's job Fo the time being, Emmett McCann has been placed there. He was on the Portland Club last season and batted for .310 and infielded for a mark of .97.

Dudley Lee looks like a fixture at shortstop while Haney is the choice

Then there is Chet Fowler, Ramon Herrera, Bill Switeck and Jack Rothrock who will make mighty bids for regular positions. It will also be necessary to carry at least two of this infielders besides Shaner, who will play the outfield except when needed at first base in an emergency.

The next few weeks at the training camp may tip all this dope overboard. One of the players who is not rated highly today may prove he is a coming star and start the season as a regular. It is more than six weeks before the league season opens and most anything may happen between now and then

Hugh Duffy has taken charge of the infield practice. The veteran instills real fighting spirit into the players. Duffy believes that too many of the present day players take things as a matter of course and that they do not battle hard enough to gain the slightest advantage over the opposition.

MAYOR BANS BOUT FOR JACK DEMPSEY

TRIO OF BRAVE SHARPSHOOTERS

'Banny' Very Much Pleased With Squad

By NICK FLATLEY.

St. Petersburg, Fla. March 2.—"Hot dog!" exclaimed Manager Dave Bancroft as he stopped his athletes out for their second day's baseball practice, "I have a fine looking bunch of ball players"

This isn't at all the proper way to start a story, but it happens to be a fact, which is much more important. Banny said that, and meant it He's tickled to death after looking over his talent for the brief space of one day.

The Braves all arrived in pretty good condition. The chaps who live in the South had been practicising with baseballs; the boys from the North did a lot of gymnasium work.

Not a prospective hero was a bit fuzzy after running around the ball yard for three laps.

LOOKS MIGHTY GOOD.

"This ball club looks mighty good already," Banny stated. "If I don't watch out, I'll have to send myself down to the Providence club. These speedy infielders will run me right out of my job."

Outfield Hal Kibbie, Rhonda Taylor and Herbie Thomas are all fighting for jobs. And they started the battle from the very first second. Little Gautreau has the call on the second base job, but he can't do any fielding down. Too many other shrimps are waiting to step in. Kibbie and Thomas, particularly look like young men who will not be denied their chance to linger in the big league

Andy High will be the regular third baseman for a while, but he hasn't the parking privileges at the hot corner sewed up by any manner of means.

RICONDA SURPRISES.

The Brave pilot had a pleasant surprise when Harry Riconda trotted onto the field. Dave thought the boy from the coast was small. Dave wanted a big bird for that third base job. Young Riconda is all of that He's built like the front end of a steam roller, weighs plenty, and looks like a natural ball tosser. Banny was impressed from the start.

"That chap," he says, "is as smooth and graceful as a big league old timer. He goes after the ball without effort, and he gets it away with the easy throw. He cuts down the fast runners. He's big enough to stand a lot of hard campaigning, and he's mighty good up there at the bat. If he can beat some of these midgets for the job, the Braves will have a dandy third baseman."

Jimmy Johnston, once of the Dodgers, is also here chasing after a place somewhere, and James can do a bit of third basing himself. He's more than happy about his shift to Boston and the same holds true for Zach Taylor, the catcher, and Ed Brown, the colossal outfielder.

The boys aren't hitting the ball out of the picture yet, because the pitchers, after a week of practice, have a lot of stuff. But the batting eyes will come back within forty eight hours and the team will be ready for the Senators when they come over here Saturday.

It's a bit early to start the scrambled dope rolling, but it looks from here as if the first exhibition game will find the Braves lined up with Wilson, Brown and Neis in the garden; Riconda, Bancroft, Gautreau and Burrus in the infield, Taylor and Gibson, catching and Benton Cooney and Genewich doing the chucking

JOE STECHER HERE MARCH 11

Promoter Paul Bowser announces that he has signed Joe Stecher, world's champion wrestler to meet some worthy opponent on March 11, at the Boston Arena.

Bowser has offered the champion a purse of $12,500 for his Boston match.

Promoter Paul Bowser, has signed New McGuire, the fighting Irish strong man, to meet Alex Lunden of Sweden and Theodore Goverchin, the Serbian champion, to face Joe Malewicz of Utica, N. Y., for the weekly Thursday night meeting.

This quartet is as clever a four as any of the real hefty lads of the mat game.

CONWAY WITH SOX

Out of the clouds.
All after Cote.

—By JACK CONWAY—

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—Dudley Lee is the pepper box of the Red Sox infield in the practice sessions here. Lee has come down out of the clouds and is playing the kind of ball he is capable of. He has apparently seen the errors of his ways.

Lee is a natural fielder. When a youngster with the Browns, veteran players used to say that it was impossible to hit a ball past Dud. He showed brilliant fielding form when he first joined the Sox. He then came to the conclusion that the Sox were fortunate to have him. He became dissatisfied with a $2,000 salary increase and asked for more. He didn't get it and acted the part of an abused ballplayer. His heart wasn't in the game until the latter part of the 1925 season, when he went in and played great baseball.

Lee has reported with head up this year. He is fielding brilliantly and stepping on the old gas all the time.

Nobody expects Lee to hit. If he can bat for .220 Pohl will be satisfied, provided Dud delivers in the field.

BIG league scouts are giving considerable attention to Cote, Holy Cross aberistop. This sensational youngster will be offered a chance to join several clubs.

It is reported that the Braves have the inside track on Cote. The latter played alongside of Gautreau, the Tribes second baseman, at Holy Cross and will probably form a new allegiance with his old teammate. Many keen baseball men claim Cote is even a better ball player than Gautreau.

BINGHAM WILL TACKLE GRID PROBLEM FIRST

A new era in Harvard sports went into effect when Bill Bingham was ratified as Harvard's first athletic director by the Board of Overseers. Bingham's term of office starts at once.

The former Crimson athletic star will take temporary charge at the Watawan Horse and will take action immediately on the appointing of next year's football coach

No athletic man knows the ins & outs of Harvard sports better than Bill Bingham. In fact he was the only man out of the long list of Harvard Alumni who was considered equal to the job. As an undergraduate, Bingham was a star on the track team captaining the runners in his senior year. As an alumnus, he later became head coach of the track team and assistant treasurer of the Harvard A. A. He has been a member of the Athletic Committee since 1922 and has served as the vice-president

Bingham will become a member of the faculty and will take over Henry Pennypacker's position as chairman of the athletic committee.

Besides the football situation, the new director of athletics has many minor matters to settle. Harvard has been in dire need of three new athletic buildings, a tank a gymnasium, and a separate building to house the Harvard A. A. these matters will claim Bingham's attention

It is understood that Bingham will control all press matter on athletic affairs at Harvard through his secretary. This method has proven effective at various colleges through out the country and will put Harvard in the right light with the public

PLANNING YOUR HOME

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Most Inspiring Task When Done With Mutual Love

By Beatrice Fairfax,

Who Occupies a Unique Position in the Writing World as an Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

AT this time of year when Fay Cloyd is busy planning for Hortantine, to join hopes together, the thought of weddings looms large. And so practical considerations such as those expressed in the following letter may occur to more than one young couple who are planning an Easter or June wedding and a home nest of their own:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I hope you will find it convenient to write an article regarding the following questionnaire—I can hardly call it a letter.

Married Three Years

"I have been married three years and have a baby girl of about two. I am living with my parents-in-law as we have not been able to start housekeeping by ourselves. It's my intention, after the baby is older, to have some one care for her and take a position for awhile, which will enable us to have our own home shortly.

"My mother-in-law still has an unmarried daughter of nineteen who is pretty and accomplished. She claims it is up to a girls parents to furnish the home for the young couple, besides giving the daughter a dowry consisting of linens and wearing apparel.

"Do you think the bride's parents should furnish the home? Do you think her parents should go into debt to do such a thing? Does a young man think more of a girl if her parents furnish the home?

"Shouldn't a young man take a certain pride, when he is ready to get married, in furnishing a home?

"My own parents are not in a position to furnish my home, but I'm not taking this attitude as a defense for them. I think a girl is happy in the thought that the man she is to marry is planning the home they are to share together.

"MARY."

The questions you ask, Mary might seem, on the surface, questions of custom and etiquette, rather than problems of the heart. But, looking a little deeper, they involve so much of mutual consideration, accomodation, harmony and real love, planning that I am sure all these are well worthy of space in this column.

Decide Themselves

As far as I know, there has never been in this country any theory for the idea that a girl's parents should furnish her home when she marries any more than that the boy's parents should furnish his home—a convention which prevails in certain countries abroad.

Young people themselves, today decide all these points.

You and your husband Mary, are very sensible to plan a home out of your own. Plan it together with mutual love and it can't fail. Don't allow yourself to be hindered or depressed by outgrown ideas of other generations and other lands.

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. It is not the most dangerous of human afflictions but it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warm as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink plenty of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

FAY KING SAYS GETTING SKINNY ISN'T SO GRAND

By Fay King

THE other day I was riding in a hotel elevator. A woman got in and greeted two men who knew her. We got out of the elevator two floors before they did and I rode to the top floor. When she left one man said to the other:

"Pete, I hardly knew her! Doesn't she look terrible! She used to be right pretty and plump."

I am no doubt surprise the other man knew her very well, because I am quite sure that I knew her as well as either of them, and I rode to the top floor because I wanted to see her face.

She was a woman of about forty-five, and she looked like a woman of forty-five. She looked like a woman who had been ill, or who had been dieting. Her face was drawn and haggard, her eyes were sunken, her cheeks were hollow, her skin was sallow and lifeless. She looked like a woman who had been starving herself to get thin.

Now I am not a fat woman myself, but I am not a thin woman either. I am a woman of average weight, and I am proud of it. I am proud of my curves, my dimples, my rounded arms and my full throat. I am proud of my weight because I have fought hard to get it and to keep it.

I have fought against the fashion of the moment which decrees that women must be thin, and I have fought against the craze for dieting which has swept over the country. I have fought against it because I know that it is a fashion which is not only ugly but unhealthy.

There is nothing youthful in the shrunken, half-starved looking women one sees today. There is nothing beautiful in the undeveloped beauty of extreme youth. It is very different from the beauty of the adult frame which needs a proper plumpness to be beautiful.

I am not writing this because I am afraid that I am going to lose my own figure. I am writing it because I am afraid that the women who are losing their figures are losing their beauty.

I am writing it because I am afraid that the women who are starving themselves are starving their health.

I am writing it because I am afraid that the women who are dieting are dieting their youth away.

I am writing it because I am afraid that the women who are losing their curves are losing their charm.

I am writing it because I am afraid that the women who are losing their weight are losing their vitality.

I am writing it because I am afraid that the women who are losing their flesh are losing their youth.

I am writing it because I am afraid that the women who are losing their flesh are losing their beauty.

I am writing it because I am afraid that the women who are losing their flesh are losing their health.

I am writing it because I am afraid that the women who are losing their flesh are losing their charm.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By William F. Kirk

THE ladys of our Publick Club is going to have a deebait on the World Court, sed Ma to Pa last nite.

I hoap they haf it soon, sed Pa, so they can git the World Court or kill it, one way or the other, sed Pa. Bizness will be better then

You doant have to be smart, sed Ma. I think it is only natteral, sed Ma, that the wimmen want to know about these things since they have the rite of Franchise, sed Ma.

Oh, of course it is, sed Pa, kind of quick, of course. But what I am getting at, sed Pa, is that the peepul of the wurld ought to git together or maik up thare minds to stay apart, do sumthing & haf it settled, sed Pa. My own noshun is, sed Pa, that this nashun wud git along very nicely if it kept out of combines, sed Pa, & played its own sistem, the way it used to, sed Pa.

What is it, combines, I sed

Well, Bobbie, sed Pa, combines are about the same as combinashuns. I suppose a combine of nashuns wud be mour propperly called a combinashun, sed Pa. Ha Ha.

Why the Ha ha? sed Ma. I fale to see anything clevver about that remmark.

Dident you git it? sed Pa. A combine of nashuns shud be called a combinashun, combine, nashuns, camb-nashun. You are thicker than usuil this eve, sed Pa.

You are terrubly agger-vaiting, sed Ma. You drive me almost mad sumtimes with yure sneers, sed Ma.

Sneers? sed Pa. Why I wasent sneering I luv you too much to sneer at you, sed Pa

Do you reely, deer? sed Ma

Why of course, sed Pa I wud go thru fire & water for you.

I reely beleeve you wud at that, sed Ma. You old darling.

You bet I wud, sed Pa. You are the appil of my eye, sed Pa

Gee, that made Ma feel happy, wimmen is funny no matter how old & fat they git they are always reddy to beleeve they are chicknzz or kittens or baby dolls or sum thing like that. I doant know such a terrubul lot about dames but I know that much you cant hand them too much Hot Air, not even on summer days. I will now cloase.

DAILY SHORT STORY

ARTHUR was a very serious minded young man. He was the chief bookkeeper in a wholesale shoe house, but he had aspirations. Every evening he hied himself to a school of business administration and spent weary hours learning how to run a ten-million-dollar corporation; never, apparently, seeing the humorous side of the thing.

It was characteristic of Arthur that in the two or three years he had been attending the school of business administration, it had never once occurred to him as funny that the entire student body, clerks with various pitiful salaries like his own, should see nothing incongruous about studying books in order to head ten-million-dollar corporations.

Highly Shocked

If anyone has told him that one got to be the head of a gigantic corporation not by studying books, but by indulging in grand larceny with a legal twist, he would have been highly shocked. In most things Arthur was a pretty nice little chap. Always neatly dressed, unfailingly friendly at all times, he was the exact type of nice young fellow who will never head million dollar corporations. In other words, he had absolutely no sense of humor.

Usually the tenor of Arthur's life was pretty even, but starting a week ago last Saturday a new element had come into his life. He had been going down on the Elevated as usual, his mind occupied with the speculation of most passengers nowadays as they observe the rocking cars actuating more and more speed daily and wonder how soon a wreck with a few hundred lives lost will make the company slow down to safe speeds again when he noticed a girl sitting opposite him.

Strictly speaking, she was not just a girl. She was something utterly and amazingly marvelous, disguised as a girl. She seemed to send out confusion as a broadcasting station sends out jazz. Arthur felt himself definitely seized with an acute attack of St. Vitus dance. He fidgeted all the way downtown, and, the following Monday, was careful to catch the same train again.

For a Week

And so it went, each day for nearly a week Arthur had looked at her. He had arranged everything methodically, his being a business administration trained mind; the second day he smiled at her faintly; the third day he smiled at her broadly. To neither of these predatory symptoms did she respond by the faintest flicker of an answering smile. On the third day he spoke to her:

"Would you care to read my paper?" he offered tentatively, observing that apparently she had forgotten hers.

"No!" she replied crossly, and that was that.

On the fifth day Arthur definitely gave it up. If he had spent his times profitably reading Guy de Maupassant instead of wasting his time on business books written by starving morons, he might have known how to proceed; if he had read de Maupassant's story "The Father," for instance. But then there are no lilac fields in Chicago. The nearest approach to one being a private taxi; but, anyway, on the sixth day, Arthur, still as much in love with her as he had been the moment he saw her, had in his own mind given up all hope of ever meeting her and clasping her tiny, white, cool-looking little hands in his.

And then, on the next Monday, a strange thing happened. Apparently the motorman had gone to sleep, for at the curve, at Sheridan road where he should have slowed down to about seventy-five miles an hour, he kept right on with the result that Arthur, who had been reading his paper, fell sprawling into the aisle.

Clear down upon the floor, ludicrously he fell and, to make things worse, he was half stunned and could not get his bearings for a moment. He scrambled about like a turtle placed upon its back before he at last regained his feet and stood staring about, seeming to hear a beautiful thin bell somewhere; a silver bell.

In Laughter

As he began to get his wits back, he identified the bell sound. It was someone in paroxysms of laughter; and it was the most beautiful laughter he had ever heard. Looking about his eyes lit upon her and instantly he went hot and cold by turns. Cold with rage that one whom he loved should laugh at him, and yet, too, he could not help but enjoy the beauty of her voice and the heartiness of her mirth; she was almost doubled up with mirth.

At last the train arrived safely in spite of all the laws of gravity, at Randolph Street and Arthur got out. She got out immediately behind him and, to his amazement, walked right up and spoke.

"Do, please not get up and make things worse, I beg of you. I am quite sorry for the accident, and anxious at first fear you have hurt yourself when I saw you not keep from

FOXY GRANDPA'S DAILY INTERESTING BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

"FOXY GRANDPA," said Bobby with a discouraged look on his face, "I've lost that nice little pigskin purse which was in my stocking on Christmas."

"That's too bad," I said.

"Perhaps you'll find one on the beach this morning," said Bunny, as we walked down to the sea shore.

"There are no shops on this beach," said Bobby.

"I didn't say buy one," argued Bunny. "I said find one."

Bobby gave me a look as if to say, "He's crazy."

We came to the beach and at once Bobby asked me if he could take off his shoes and stockings and go in wading. I agreed, and in a minute the boy was paddling around in the ocean as happy as a clam at high tide.

Bunny and I sat on the beach in the sun and Bunny said that if he could take off his stockings he might go in wading, too, but he said it wasn't very comfortable having to dry your stockings on your feet, and I agreed with him. "They might shrink, too, Foxy Grandpa," he added.

Bobby came out of the water and sat down by us—but not for long. In a moment he was up the beach and I could see him stooping now and then as he gathered shells.

Soon he came running back with something in his hand.

"I told you you'd find a purse," said Bunny.

"What do you mean purse?" asked Bobby.

"That's a sailor's purse," declared Bunny.

"I used to call them mermaid's purses when I was a boy," said I, "and some people call them sea-purses."

"Well," said Bobby, turning it over in his hand, "this purse is empty."

"It wasn't always," said Bunny.

"Did it ever have money in it?" asked the boy.

"No," replied Bunny. "It had something more valuable than that to the owner."

"Who owned it and what did it have in it, Bunny—please tell me," begged Bobby.

"It had eggs in it and it was the property of a small shark."

"Shark eggs!" exclaimed the boy. "You don't mean it!"

"I do," said Bunny. "The baby sharks are hatched out now and very probably making the herrings' lives miserable out there some place in the ocean by now.

"What are these four strings for, Bunny?" continued Bobby.

"They are to fasten the case to seaweed, so that it will be safe until the babies are hatched out. And while the case is lashed there the mother keeps her eye on it, too, I am told and woe betide any fish that monkeys with it."

"Have these sharks any particular name?" asked Bobby.

"Yes," replied Bunny, "they are called dogfish."

A Sweet Stomach!

What a pity when youth and vitality are set at naught by a disordered stomach, and bad breath! Don't have them at any age! Hearty eaters—hard smokers—high livers—find Stuart's a boon and blessing!

Eat what you wish. Drink what you like. Then chew a Stuart tablet. That gives the stomach sufficient alkaline; the result is a sweet stomach, serene digestion, no pains, no gas.

Pocket Size—only 25 cts.!

Every druggist has Stuart's tablets, 25c and 60c. Why not carry the handy pocket box of Stuart's? Only a quarter, fits any man's pocket or woman's bag, and offers instantaneous relief whenever needed.

FOR Acid Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA

For fifty years genuine "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour-ing waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store.

COOK-COOS by Ted Cook

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MELLON told the House Appropriations Committee recently that—

". . . The average dollar bill lasts from six to ten months . . ."

Do you suppose the Democrats will let him get away with that?

Offhand, it appears that Secretary Mellon has been getting his data from Harry Lauder.

* * *

If the congressmen really want to know how long the average dollar bill will last, why don't they interview a cafeteria patron?

* * *

* * *

Be that as it may, Mr. Mellon proposes that the size of the dollar bill be reduced by one-half.

Pretty soon a person will be able to go into a cigar store and trade twenty-five one-dollar bills for a pink coupon.

* * *

And when he gets twenty-five pink coupons he can trade them in for a safety razor blade or a kewpie doll.

New Ice Treatment A Real Beautifier

Every Beauty Doctor knows the value of Ice Treatments for the complexion, but recently an English Beauty Specialist found that even better results could be obtained by simply rubbing the face, neck or hands with a little ordinary ice-mint either just before retiring at night or whenever one desires to look their best.

The reaction of the ice-mint on the skin not only brings the color to the cheeks the same as an ice treatment, but it also holds the color there longer and makes the skin soft, firm and more youthful in appearance. Wrinkles will soon be a thing of the past to the woman who cares for her skin. Many have already made themselves look years younger by these simple ice-mint treatments and Druggists say they are having an enormous demand for it as the cost is little and is positively a delight to any woman who loves a good complexion and hands and skin.

Are American workers gradually to acquire control of many corporations through the purchase of stock on the installment plan?

The employes of one large public utility today own and vote 200,000 of the company's $60,000 total shares. The next-largest block owned by anyone is 5,000 shares.

Therefore, it can safely be truthfully that dominant ownership and control of one great corporation already has been gained by its workers. This enterprise is the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company.

Many Americans doubtless would shiver at the thought of corporation after corporation passing into the control of the employes. But the Philadelphia workers have acted sanely, even conservatively, since they began to acquire a dominating voice and vote in the running of the company.

Employe ownership of stock is becoming very popular and widespread, particularly among public utility and industrial corporations, that the happenings in Philadelphia possess nation-wide interest.

The germ of the P. R. T. plan goes back thirty years, when T. E. Mitten settled a violent and disastrous strike on Milwaukee's street railways. He then resolved to devote his business life to bringing about more humane and mutually profitable relations between workers and management. First Milwaukee, then Buffalo, then Chicago was successfully tackled by Mr. Mitten.

After fifteen years of such work, Philadelphia sent an SOS to him. The transit Company was facing bankruptcy, its equipment was obsolete and worn out, service was demoralized, the employes underpaid and rebellious following a series of disastrous strikes, were in open revolt, against the management and fighting among their own rival union organizations.

What was promptly named the Mitten management plan was decided upon. It provided that wages should be paid from a fixed fund, set aside annually out of earnings, and that there be no increase or decrease in accordance with the rise or fall of gross earnings. The men elected representatives to greet management representative to iron out all wrinkles.

A new spirit was born. Loyalty and co-operation brought increased earnings and increased wages. In seven years wages doubled. For the first time in the company's history regular dividends began to be paid. Equipment and service were greatly improved. Meanwhile Philadelphia maintained a five-cent fare.

RADIO CORPORATION ANNUAL REPORT OUT

Radio Corporation of America for 1925 reports net of $5,737,206 after charges and depreciation, equal to $9,562,442 in pervious year. Surplus was $2,882,892, the same as previously reported, after providing for Federal taxes, patent amortisation, write-offs and reserves. This is equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.37 a share on 1,535,400 shares of no-par common, against $4,741,243 or $2.90 a share on common in 1924.

Balance sheet shows total assets $60,176,288, against $58,292,350 in previous year, and includes cash and short-term securities which were cancelled when the armistice came.

The Supreme Court upheld the verdict of the Court of Claims that the assessment against the government was correct, and denied the government's motion to send the case back to the Court of Claims for review.

$12,000,000 Merger

Twelve million-dollar merger of Champion Refining Company, Enid Oklahoma, and Windsor Oil & Gas Company, Okmulgee, Oklahoma, is announced.

BEECHNUT EARNINGS IN PAST YEAR ARE LOWER

Beechnut Packing Company for 1925 reports net of $2,099,243 after charges and Federal taxes, the same as shown in preliminary statement, equivalent after allowing for 7 per cent. preferred dividend requirements to $5.38 a share (par $200) on 375,000 common, against $2,187,771, or $5.62 a share in 1924.

SWIFT & CO. WIN $1,077,380 SUIT

Swift & Co., Chicago packers, won a verdict of $1,077,380 from the government because of wartime bacon and meat contracts which were cancelled when the armistice came.

HUDSON HEADS ACTIVE STOCK ISSUES

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

A good many brokers, investors and speculators, together with a big group of shell-shocked bears, are watching Hudson Motors. Last week it headed the list of the twenty most active issues, being the only one to record a gain for the week. Mrs. Edsel Ford is reported the largest stock-holder in Hudson. This, perhaps, accounts for the majority of the many "Ford rumors" about Hudson. One of the most persistent of these is that the Ford interests are adding to the holdings of Hudson stock with the idea of affiliating the two companies as to management and operation.

Mrs. Edsel Ford

* * *

One of our largest brokerage houses says: We note among other influences five important factors which argue very emphatically against the theory that a bear market is now in its incipient stage:

1—TAXES—There will be a 50 per cent. reduction in tax payments this year. This capital will be free for use in industry and finance. It creates a substantial reservoir of surplus credit.

2—BANK CREDIT—Two years ago on the bull market stock recession, lasting only from February to April, bank credit accumulated so rapidly that call money rates dropped to 2 per cent. That was while taxes were nearly 150 per cent. higher than they will be this year. On any similar liquidation bank credit this year will accumulate even more rapidly and the natural consequence will be another decline in money rates to an abnormally low level, forming a basis for another broad upward move in the stock market.

3—RAILROADS—Revenue freight is maintaining a consistently high level for this time of the year. This reflects active general turnover and will result in large railroad earnings. With the approval of the nickel plate merger, which we expect next week, these latent earnings should form the basis for a strong market in railroad shares.

4—STEEL AND COAL ACTIVITY—Seasonal relaxation in business is usual at this time of the year. Leaders in productive industry followed a similar policy in checking the boom at this time. Earnings continue at the highest level in history, on an average. There is a tremendous backlog of buying power which has been conserved and will be released later on. This leaves something tangible for the stock market to discount on the rise after the passing of the current "soft spot" which we believe to be only temporary.

5—INVESTMENT YIELDS—Possibly as important as any other factor is the liberal dividend return on nearly all industrial securities. This is in fact the real reason for the existing high level of prices, with some few exceptions. We can see nothing in the outlook to modify these earnings and dividends. A similar situation in 1906 when dividends and the prices of stocks were high was accompanied by a sidewise movement in the stock market which lasted more than a year, with up and down swings in prices ranging over ten points.

Summarizing these different elements, we think they warrant an optimistic view of the future and justify the purchase of good stocks during this recession.

March 18 is the date assigned for argument before the Massachusetts Supreme Court on the master's report in the Adams dividend suit against Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway trustees. This makes termination of the case possible at an earlier date than seemed likely some weeks ago.

NO SERIOUS REACTION IN BUSINESS IS SEEN

National City Bank of New York says today: "With the different branches of industry thus in better adjustment than they have been for years, the outlook justifies restrained optimism. The danger, of course, lies in over-confidence leading to over-production and disturbance of the normal balance in industry. In view of the exceptionally heavy output of 1925 conservative business men will not be taken by surprise if the volume of business this year falls to constantly overtop all previous records or should even fall somewhat short of a recent level. There seems to be little likelihood of anything in the way of a serious reaction."

AMERICAN LOCO HAS RECORD LOW OUTPUT

American Locomotive Company for 1925 shows deficit of $843,321, after charges and taxes, and a deficit after preferred dividends and after regular dividend of $8 and extra dividend of $10 on 500,000 shares of no par common of $11,332,679. This compares with net of $8,649,507, or $9.80 on 500,000 common shares in 1924. Profit and loss surplus was $16,396,185, compared with $27,385,704 in 1924.

MASS CONSOLIDATED IN RED INK FIGURES

Mass Consolidated Mining Co. for year ended Dec. 31, 1925, reports losses of $5,429, compared with a profit of $268 in 1925. Balance of current assets as of Dec. 31, 1925, was $1,587, compared with $7,418 at the end of 1924. The company has outstanding 100,000 shares of $25 par value capital stock.

HOWE SOUND PROFITS FOR YEAR TAKE JUMP

Howe Sound net profit of $947,308 after tax, interest, depreciation, depletion, etc., for 1926 is equal to $1.89 a share on 496,038, no-par shares, against $415,979, or $1.04 a share, on 396,839 shares in 1924.

MISSIONS IN 3 CHURCHES END SUNDAY NIGHT

By JAMES WALSH.

Missions which have been in progress in three of the churches of the archdiocese since a week ago Sunday will be brought to a close next Sunday evening with the bestowal of the papal blessing and renewal of baptismal vows. An average of more than 3,000 men are in attendance every morning and evening at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, where members of the Oblate Order are conducting a mission. The attendance also at the missions being given in St. Cecilia's Church, Belvidere street, Back Bay, and in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Winthrop, has been very large. Oblate Fathers are conducting the mission at the former church, Redemptorist Fathers at the latter.

The Columbus Club of Dorchester will hold a mass meeting of the membership of the five Knights of Columbus councils that make up the club tonight in the clubhouse, corner of Pearl and Pleasant streets. The purpose of the meeting is to provide for the Washington Reunion for the members. The committee in charge is headed by Thomas J. Kelly. Other members are Joseph Manning, John J. Coughlin, Edward S. Graham, Joseph F. Nolan, Alfred D. Whelton, Frank Harrington, Clarence C. Strang, Thomas Dwyer, James D. Murphy and Frank Berry. Prominent members of the order will be the speakers at the meeting.

Williams Court No. 19, Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, will hold an "Irish Night" on Monday evening, March 8, in Walcott Hall, Central square, East Boston. Modern and old-time dancing and a fiddlers' contest will feature the entertainment.

The Rev. Francis L. Keenan of St. John's Seminary, Brighton, lectured on the "Life of the Little Flower" in Highland Hall, Knights of Columbus Building, Somerville, last night. The affair was under the auspices of the Holy Name Catholic Club. A shrine in honor of the "Little Flower" is soon to be erected in the Church of St. Catherine of Genoa, Prince Hill. The following women had charge of the affair: Catherine Powers, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Noonan, Mrs. Eugene Rogers, Miss Louise Rogers, Mrs. Mary

BIG AIRPLANE BOOM COMING

Washington, March 2 (I.N.S.)—Tens of millions of American dollars will be invested in commercial aeronautical projects within the next fifty years, Walter Drake, head of the joint committee on civil aviation of the Department of Commerce and American Engineering Council, declared today.

By 1930, air routes, along which will roar hundreds of freight and passenger planes, will connect all important cities of the United States, according to Drake.

Extensive development will start this year, provided Congress enacts a pending bill providing for government regulation through a bureau of civil aeronautics in the Department of Commerce.

Drake expressed the opinion that a small package service in the air will develop more rapidly than transportation of passengers. He pointed out that excellent railroad service connect most of the important cities by over-night rides.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

BE A BOSTON BOOSTER

Senate and House Both Hold World Court Veto Power

Scores of loyal Americans in the House of Representatives have had to sit with folded hands, indignant but impotent, while the Senate voted the United States into the World Court of the League of Nations.

Under our Constitution the Senate alone is authorized to co-operate with the President in exercising the treaty-making power, and the protocol of the World Court is in the nature of a treaty.

Later, however, the House will have an opportunity to nullify the "adherence" to the World Court which was voted by the Senate.

The Senate voted us into the court with certain "reservations," all of which must be accepted by the forty-seven nations who are members of the court before we become a member.

Reservation 5 says that we enter only on condition that the United States shall pay a fair share of the expenses of the court as determined by the United States Congress.

Under the Constitution, all appropriations must originate in the House of Representatives. Its failure in any year to appropriate "a fair share of expenses of the court" would cancel our membership.

The fight against our participation in the World Court has not been entirely in vain.

The Senate did not dare let it come to a vote until they attached two important new reservations which retained for the Senate absolute control of our use of the court. These reservations are:

1—United States can withdraw from the court whenever it chooses.

2—No case can be submitted to the court by this country unless two-thirds of the Senate vote to submit it.

So the Senate can, by a majority vote, get out of the court any day it wants to. And one-third of the Senate can prevent any specific question from being submitted to this foreign tribunal.

Meanwhile, the work of educating the country as to the real nature of the World court as an agent of the League of Nations will continue.

Before any American case goes before the court we may have a Senate that will take us out of the court entirely, a Senate that will refuse to submit any particular case, or a House that will keep us out of the court by refusing to contribute to its expenses.

How Big Is Quincy Armory?

Its Capacity Will Be Tested on April 24th

The seventh son of a seventh son cannot always tell how the public will react to these announcements, but for our part we have marked a ring around the twenty-fourth of April, on the office calendar, and will try to be present, in the afternoon and again in the evening of that day, in the Armory at Quincy.

In the afternoon, fifteen men's glee clubs in competition; in the evening, the same singers, in concert.

The prizes will be of five hundred, three hundred and two hundred dollars. The clubs will represent Providence, Portland, Springfield, Lowell, Worcester, Sanford, Me.; Dedham, Beverly, Newton, Quincy and other communities yet to be heard from.

The spelling bee is with us again, college and high school debaters are in the midst of a busy season, there is an interscholastic short-story contest in the making, the old-time fiddler has been heard from, maybe the "sing" is coming back!

It is good to know that ALL New England does not sit up and telephone in for "fight bulletins."

"Buaa-hovo-fenna"

A Queer Name, but Don't Laugh at It

The natives of Polynesia, who had never seen a horse, were much frightened when the first snorting four-legged monster galloped among them.

They thought it would eat them; they even thought it was poisonous. They passed a law saying that it was a crime to touch a man after your hands had touched a horse, since the horse was "taboo."

But we get used to everything, even to hard work and regular habits. After a while the Polynesians got used to the horse, and rather fond of it. They called it "buaa-hovo-fenna," which means in their language "A pig that runs quickly over the ground."

"What a funny word," says the young man or maiden. "It would take a Polynesian to invent THAT kind of word."

But you need not laugh at poor "buaa-hovo-fenna." We have words just as queer. Our word "automobile" means a thing that moves itself. Telephone means "far voice," and telegraph "far writing."

If you have an hour to spare, take a good dictionary, study words and their derivations. Robert Louis Stevenson did that often, and he made a good living as a writer.

Some Worse Than Others

Congressmen Should Not Quarrel

Congressman Blanton, of Texas, is an ardent "dry." He had a row in the House with Congressman Hill, of Maryland, NOT so bone dry. In the course of the prohibition discussion Congressman Blanton said he would take Congressman Hill to Baltimore to get him "dead drunk on beer." Congressman Hill offered to bet $100 that Blanton couldn't do it, the money to go to sweet charity.

Congressmen should not THINK, much less TALK, about getting each other "dead drunk." The fact is, however, that those that drink beer rarely become drunk, and never become "dead drunk"—that is to say unconscious—and in drinking whiskey the tendency is always to drunkenness, and frequently to unconsciousness. In drunkenness, whiskey is worse than beer, just as opium is worse than tobacco. Total abstinence is best of all, for those that desire it and can practise it. Whether it should be forced upon the unwilling is for the majority to decide.

WAR OF HUMANITY ON INSECTS

By Garrett P. Serviss,

NO doubt many people look upon the "war of the insects" as either a joke or a Jules Verne story.

When they are told that the chief, the most dangerous, and the most efficient competitors of man for mastery of the earth are the insect hordes, they smile and say: "Oh, yes, so I hear." And if they give it another thought it is simply: "The idea! Those little things competing with us!"

But the kinds, only, of "those little things" that have been counted number over six hundred thousand, "and vastly more (probably millions) remain to be made known."

The individuals are numbered by trillions!

Everybody ought to take notice when so serious a scientific body as the Smithsonian Institution gives itself for this warfare; makes it one of the important "phases" of its program. There is no joke and no romance in the following:

"In growing the crops and stock by which we live our farmers spend their lives in constant costly warfare with the insects. The number of people who could be fed by the wheat or corn or other grain destroyed by insects, or clothed by the cotton or wool lost every year through insect depredations, represent the casualties on this battle line.

Loss to Farmer

"We discount these casualties as 'losses to the farmer,' but take these figures and read them as losses to our army and see what that would mean. The two are quite alike in being both losses to our man power and all that that implies."

We could have no hope whatever of victory in this uncanny war were it not for the divisions among our innumerable foes. None of them, perhaps, can be called our sworn friends, but many are our involuntary allies. Sowing and encouraging dissensions and Judas-ism among the enemy is not a noble or heroic way to conquer, but it is a principle that lurks deep in the base nature of war, and few fighters have ever been scrupulous enough to avoid it.

Alliance with parasites is the very soul of our warfare against the insects. But just as in the great World War that was fought by men against men, science was called upon for deeper and yet deeper studies into the heart of every principle and method of attack and defense, and great losses and disasters were suffered on both sides through ignorance that was corrected too late. So, in this war, which knows no armistice and can seek no peace without victory, the great desideratum is more knowledge, quickly acquired.

Termed Fortunate

"We are fortunate in this country in having perfected to an extent found in no other land methods for the control of insect pests. But what we have done in this direction has already outstripped the facts upon which must be based really effective work. Our methods have been advanced beyond the detailed knowledge of the results achieved. In our methods of control we do not always know what it is we do."

I have taken the liberty to underscore the last sentence above because of its striking significance. In the World War it sometimes happened, through ignorance, or imperfect knowledge (which is often as bad as ignorance) that more friends were hurt than enemies. So in the insect war we must be careful to understand all the effects of the methods and agencies that we employ.

The insect or the parasite employed as an ally is sometimes dismayingly capricious. We must know the character and the crotchets of our multitudinous minute allies, and that implies original investigation in entomology.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

ON "OLD BACHELORS"

SOME men never marry.
Then some OTHER men
(MARRIED men, of course,)
INFORM them of all they HAVE OVERLOOKED.
The trouble with BACHELORS
Is they have generally
Looked over SO MUCH
That eventually they Don't want to buy.
At THIRTY, a bachelor
Should not be taken SERIOUSLY. At FORTY
He should be taken
With a GRAIN OF SALT.
At FIFTY, to be ACCEPTABLE, he has to Offer GOOD security.
At SIXTY, the world
Feels at liberty to MOCK HIM mildly.
For THEY know that
At SEVENTY, a bachelor
Without his Own
FIRESIDE is pathetic.
Having had no CHILDREN,
He has no GRAND-
CHILDREN, and THEN
Who has he got
TO PLAY WITH?

LISTEN, WORLD!

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By Elsie Robinson

"OF course," says Henriette, "people will talk. But why should I care? I thought I'd get your approval, Elsie, and then I'd feel fortified against the croaks of my friends."

Henriette's little plan is for a three day vacation with her friend Jack. "You see," says Henriette, "we both enjoy the same sort of good times, and it is rare enough to find someone who does. I confess I don't know any girl whose company I enjoy as much as Jack's.

"I certainly don't want to marry him just to enjoy his company and besides there is nothing sentimental between us. I wouldn't have written about this trip, for nobody will ever know about that most likely, but we have another plan that, of course, they will know about. You see, Elsie, I am alone in the world since my father passed on a year ago, and I still live in the flat where we always lived. I rent the two other flats in the house. Now I have more room than I need, but I am peculiar; I don't enjoy everybody's company and there is no girl I know that I would want to take in.

"But Jack is a good friend, and I enjoy him, and I want to rent him the two rooms across the back of the flat. With what he would pay me I could afford to have a maid to cook for us. He now lives in an inconvenient cheerless bachelor hotel, and this arrangement would be ideal for both of us. Of course people will talk, but why should I care? I thought I'd get your approval, Elsie. Then I'd feel fortified against the croaks of my friends. If I am good I guess that's enough. I can't be bothered with what people think.

Henriette."

But what people think matters very much indeed, Henriette, as you'll find out if you persist in your plans.

Think it over. And don't ever count on my approval of busted conventions. I've lived in this crowded world long enough to have a high opinion of the need for traffic laws on the highway and safe conventions in human conduct.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS---

By Helen Rowland

WHO is so unhappy, who is so accursed, who is so pitiable, as a man that is married to a curious woman?

For, verily, a woman hath NO reticences; but a man's mind is as full of reservations as a World Court Treaty. And woe unto her that heedeth not the "No Admittance" sign upon his private opinions!

Helen Rowland

Go to, Idle curiosity is the sin of spinsters, but a WIFE'S curiosity is never idle!

As a cinder in the eye, as a splinter in the fingernail, as an ingrowing hair—so is a woman that seeketh to penetrate a man's secret thoughts and hidden motives!

She getteth "under his skin," and causeth him great pain!

And whatsoever she discoveth, he knoweth that he shall have to EXPLAIN it! Yea, all the days of his life, he is as a prisoner at the bar, waiting to confess!

And his soul revolteth against confession, as a cat against water, or a small boy against the washing of his ears!

For, a man may frankly reveal the workings of his business or the workings of his digestion—but the workings of his MIND are sacred and NO woman's business!

MEDBURY SAYS

By John P. Medbury

NOT being satisfied with taking all the excursionists away from Los Angeles, Florida is now going after the tourists from Reno.

THE South is trying to become the arithmetic center of the world. Married couples can go to Palm Beach one and come back two.

THE climate is so wonderful in Palm Beach that a man and wife will go down there just to give each other the air.

IF YOU must become separated, there's nothing like having nice weather for it.

DIVORCES will be very easy for a woman to get. All she'll have to have is a husband.

FLORIDA is a pleasure ground of America and the courts will set you free while you play.

YOU leave your bungalow married and come back into the house single.

A MAN ought never to go to Mexico for a divorce. He should patronize home industry.

THE courts will probably allow a woman a large sum of alimony so that she can buy lots there.

WHEN BROMIDES ARE INTERESTING

By DR. FRANK CRANE

LORD ASQUITH, in London, tells his countrymen that they eat too much.

"Most of the disabling forms of illness," he says, "are due, not to malnutrition, but to wrong eating."

Our own Judge Gary, while spending a period in one of his Steel Company's hospitals learning correct eating, tells Americans the same thing.

Both gentlemen are right. So are the thousands who have said the same thing without ever breaking into print.

It is because we are undyingly interested in personalities.

An idea becomes alive only when it is associated with a personality.

The course taken by most beneficial reforms is circuitous.

It generally originates in the mind of some "obscure" person. Then it is advocated among the unknown but intelligent minority until it attracts the attention of personalities who are in the public eye.

When they take it up the idea is given the publicity that broadcasts it to everyone, and in time it becomes an accepted fact that it is part of the public consciousness.

Advertisers realizing this are paying fabulous sums to spectacular personalities for their endorsement of the articles they have for sale.

The endorsement of "Red" Grange would sell more caps than absolute proof that the quality of the cloth was superior and the style of the latest.

It has become a proverb that "the words of the rich man are accepted as wisdom."

This has always been decried, but there is another side to the shield.

Having people to whom the world will listen—even if they merely broadcast the ideas originated by the intelligent minority—plays an important part in advancement.

IF YOU CAN'T GO HOME MAKE FRIENDS WHERE YOU ARE

So you are another one who has become dissatisfied with working conditions and home surroundings and the fact that you fill such a small niche in the place where you live.

Perhaps you are looking back to some former home where you were happy, but where you could not make more than a frugal living.

You live now to accumulate enough to go back, buy a business and live on your income.

Because you have this in mind you have never really settled down. You take a passive interest in the town where you live.

You are an indifferent on-looker in the town where you are working for competence.

You have never really gotten into the spirit of the place and so you are always homesick for your former home.

You might have many friends, but you are not putting out the hand of good fellowship to anyone, consequently you do not make real friends readily.

You may not live to go back, so why not get more out of the present?
